Nixon Greets Trudeau as First Official Visitor

Canadian Premier In Washington for Talks, Festivities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon welcomed Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau today as the "first official visitor" of his administration and stressed the common ties of friendship binding the neighboring countries.

Rain forced the welcoming ceremonies indoors. But there were trumpet flourishes and a military honor guard lining the driveway as the 49-year-old bachelor prime minister arrived at the White House to begin talks with Nixon and a round of social activities.

Nixon said the friendship of many years between Canada and the United States does not stem from a totality of agreements, but "lively diversity" is the hallmark of that friendship.

Nixon said there might be some differences but, as friends, the two countries can discuss them "and find in most instances a common ground," that may provide an even better solution.

Exchange Greetings

He and Trudeau stood on the stage in the East Ballroom, beneath a glittering chandelier for the exchange of welcoming speeches. A few hundred Canadians on hand jammed corridors and the ballroom.

They applauded Trudeau, and waved U.S. and Canadian flags.

Nixon cited the sharing of a common border, common law, common language and common characteristics and "a very precious asset—the asset of friendship" between the two countries.

He told Trudeau he hoped he can make him "feel as much at home as my wife and so many hundreds of thousands of Americans have been welcomed when we visited there (Canada) as private citizens."

Mrs. Nixon did not participate in the ceremonies. But she and the President will welcome him at a white tie dinner tonight—first formal state dinner of the Nixon administration.

Trudeau, making his first official visit here, expressed thanks for "the very cordial welcome" and said he appreciates Nixon according him this honor.

He, too, stressed the "very many ties that link us."

World Problems

Trudeau said he is looking forward to a discussion with Nixon of matters of mutual interest and getting Nixon's views on world problems.

He said "Like so many Canadians, I always look forward to a visit to the United States with great pleasure."

Nixon, who has yet to convince Congress of the need for a missile defense system, will likely be questioned by Trudeau about the matter during this visit

Trudeau has confronted the same sort of critical debate in his Parliament over the proposed antiballistic missile—ABM—program.

In addition to the ABM discussions, the two days of talks are expected to involve Canada's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other matters of continental defense

Allied Drive Is Under Way Near DMZ

Enemy Supply Lines Are Targets

SAIGON (AP) — More than 3,000 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen backed by an American armored column are pushing another major counter offensive south of the demilitarized zone.

Operation Maine Crag is aimed at a growing North Vietnamese threat to allied bases along the northern frontier. Marine officers at Da Nang said in the past month patrols have sighted as many as 50 enemy tracked vehicles and trucks carrying war materials toward allied bases. Some were believed to be big artillery guns.

It was the second big American drive announced in the past two days and the third within a week, as the Viet Cong's spring offensive rolled into its fifth week.

Hurt by Weather

Maine Crag was launched March 15 but has been slowed down frequently by bad weather. The U.S. Command did not announce it until today for security reasons.

The Marines said the allied force had killed 43 enemy troops so far and captured two prisoners and 129 rifles. Ten Americans were reported killed and 64 wounded. But the allies' main purpose is to cut North Vietnamese supply lines from Laos into South Vietnam.

Maine Crag is taking place along the Laotian border, about 25 miles south of the western flank of the DMZ and just south of the old Khe Sanh combat base, where U.S. forces held off a North Vietnamese siege for 2½ months last year.

One of the Marines' objective is to cut Highway 926 from Laos into South Vietnam. U.S. patrols have sighted North Vietnamese self-propelled artillery guns along the highway, which leads toward the Marines' Vandegrift combat base, the major allied operations base on the northern frontier.

Another Khe Sanh

Field commanders think these big guns could be used to turn Vandegrift base into another Khe Sanh, which was pounded daily with enemy artillery until the siege was lifted Khe Sanh was later abandoned, a policy of greater mobility was announced, and Vandegrift, 20 miles from the Laotian border and out of range of North Vietnamese artillery inside Laos, became the major Marine combat base along the frontier.

Maj. Gen. Raymond Davis, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, said that Highway 926 was particularly important now because the Marines had cut off other enemy access routes in Operation Dewey Canyon, a two-month drive that has just ended

Davis said that in Dewey Canyon the Marines cut off the road going into the northern end of the A Shau Valley, but the enemy is "still determined somehow to get into his base areas west of Quang Tri and Hue," from which he could mount attacks on those two provincial capitals

On Sunday, the U.S. Command took the security wraps off another offensive, Massachusetts Striker, which sent more than 2,000 American paratroopers into the A Shau Valley, 35 to 40 miles south of the Maine Crag operational area The valley is the biggest North Vietnamese supply base and staging area in South Vietnam's northern quarter.

Helicopters landed troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in the valley on March 1 for the third major allied invasion of the area in less than a year.

But contact has been light and sporadic since the offensive kicked off, indicating that the paratroopers have encountered only rear guard and supply troops. U.S. headquarters reported that 61 North Vietnamese soldiers and 23 American paratroopers have been killed so far and 53 paratroopers wounded.

U.S headquarters also indicated a North Vietnamese build-up in the extreme northwest corner of South Vietnam, 2½ to 3 miles south of the DMZ and within three miles of the Laotian border. It said U.S. B52s dropped nearly 400 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese camps and bunkers in that area.

Loopholes in Law

21 Millionaires Pay No Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are two kinds of millionaires in the United States: those who pay federal income taxes and those who don't. In the latter group there were 21 last year.

How is it possible, you ask as you reach for your checkbook after a losing bout with Form 1040, to have an income of more than $1 million a year and yet not pay any federal income tax?

The method most favored by untaxed millionaires is to give away things that have grown in value since they were acquired. Stocks, real estate, a share of the donor's business, art objects — all are good for this treatment.

The current value of the gift is deducted from income subject to taxation. So it's quite possible to reduce taxable income to zero.

One return cited in a recent Treasury Department study showed adjusted gross income of $10.8 million, contributions totaling $10.5 million and other deductions of $400,000-plus. No taxable income and hence no tax.

Another taxpayer's adjusted gross income of $4.3 million was erased by $4.5 million deductions, including $4 million in contributinos.

No Ironclad Rule

Ordinarily, a taxpayer may deduct no more than 30 per cent of his income for charitable gifts. But it's not an ironclad rule

A special exception allows the claiming of contributions without limit if in 8 of the past 10 years the taxpayer's contributions plus his taxes have added up to 90 per cent or more of income.

One aspect of these gifts that bothers those seeking reform of the tax laws is that it is legal for Mr. Rich to make his donations to a foundation run by his family.

And perhaps the contribution to the Rich Foundation is a share of Mr. Rich's business. This kind of giving, a Treasury study says drily, "lacks the finality which characterizes a true parting with property."

Congress is thinking of throwing out the unlimited charitable contributions privilege, largely because it figures so often in stories about untaxed millionaires.

Before he left office in January, Treasury Secretary Joseph W. Barr told Congress many middle-income taxpayers are losing confidence in the fairness of the tax system His warning of a "taxpayer revolt" is still echoing on Capitol Hill. The new Treasury team is also pledged to a reworking of the tax laws.

If the unlimited charitable contribution rule is the favorite of untaxed millionaires, one of the runners-up would have to be the depreciation rules.

Vanishing Cream

Depreciation is a great vanishing cream for taxable income. You don't have to be a millionaire to use it, but it helps

Suppose you're a corporation executive poking along at $250,000 a year Normally, you might figure on paying about $110,000 in income tax.

What you might do instead is borrow $15 million and buy a nice big apartment building. Figure an income from rents of $1 million, reduced by maybe $500,000 for upkeep and loan payments.

So far, you're $500,000 in the black as a landlord, but don't worry about having to pay tax

Each Side Blames the Other

Guns Roar Across Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian and Israeli guns blazed away across the Suez Canal today after one of the leading Arab guerrilla organizations reported large movements of Israeli troops into the Sinai Desert.

The firing continued through one U.N. call for a cease-fire at 10 a.m. U.N. observers called for another cease-fire at noon, when the Israelis said they stopped shooting. But Israeli army spokesmen said the Egyptians continued firing in several sectors until 12:30 p.m.

Each army accused the other of firing first. They agreed it began at the southern end of the canal then spread north, all the way to El Qantara at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

Israel said it suffered no casualties or damage.

Clash in Jordan

Elsewhere, Jordanian and Israeli forces clashed for 70 minutes in the northern Jordan Valley, a Jordanian military spokesman said. He claimed that Israel started that exchange and said there were no Jordanian casualties.

The firing across the canal finally stopped after two requests by U.N. observers.

It was the first artillery duel along the canal in six days. Sporadic fighting has been going on across the 103-mile waterway for a month. Six Israelis and the Egyptian army chief of staff have been killed and 25 Israelis wounded.

Two recent lulls lasting several days were attributed to sandstorms in the area.

An Israeli spokesman said hostilities began today when one Egyptian shell was fired on Israeli troops in the southern sector of the canal. He reported firing became heavy along a 15-mile front, from the Little Bitter Lake to Port Taufiq.

Cairo Radio said the Israelis fired first at 6:30 a.m., sending over three shells from a moving tank south of the Bitter Lakes.

Two hours later, the Egyptian communique continued, the Israelis opened up with tanks and artillery in the Suez and Port Taufiq areas.

"Our forces answered the enemy to silence his guns and to destroy his forces, which started the firing," the Egyptians said.

A later Cairo communique said the fighting spread to Ismailia, midway along the 103-mile waterway. Still later the Israeli army reported firing had started in the El Qantara and Firdan regions at the northern end of the canal.

Scoffs at Reports

An Israeli army spokesman scoffed today at the report of Israeli troop movements into Sinai made by the Al Fatah guerrilla organization. "We regard all Fatah claims as largely imaginatory," he said.

Egypt in recent weeks has been reporting Israeli buildups along the canal as justification for artillery attacks the Egyptians have made across the waterway.

Al Fatah said Israel appeared to be moving almost all its forces on the Jordanian front to the Sinai in what appeared to be "more than just another exercise."

"It could be a maneuver to put Jordan off guard or could signal a major attack on the canal," said an Al Fatah spokesman in Amman.

President, Advisers Confer; Achievements Unannounced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says no significant announcements should be expected following the weekend talks held by President Nixon and four top advisers on the course of the Vietnam war.

Nixon spent much of Sunday discussing the war and prospects at the Paris peace talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, foreign policy adviser Henry A. Kissinger; the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Ellsworth Bunker, and Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, deputy American commander in the war zone.

Nothing was said following the talks about details or any decisions that might have been reached. But White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler had indicated earlier there would be no announcements on the talks.

With Bunker and Goodpaster staying on in Washington for the time being, Nixon is expected to talk with them again during the week as Nixon works under increasing congressional and political pressure to come up with some decisions on the war.

Retaliation Studied

In spite of the news blackout, it is known that Nixon has been considering what if any retaliatory action should be taken against North Vietnam because of the now month-long enemy offensive in South Vietnam

And discussions of possible U.S. troop withdrawals from the combat zone have been held, although top administration officials have indicated a cut in U.S. troop strength is not now in sight.

Nixon's weekend was typical of the breaks he has taken from the White House—fast-moving and mostly devoted to business.

On his way to the West Coast Friday he stopped briefly at Independence, Mo., for a visit with former President Harry S Truman

After his arrival in California he issued a statement criticizing student disorders but leaving the responsibility for controlling campus dissidents to college officials.

He also toured the famous San Juan Capistrano Mission and the Camp Pendleton Marine Base as well as holding talks with his advisers.

Eavesdropping Rule to Stand

Court Refuses To Review Case Despite U. S. Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without explanation, the Supreme Court refused today to reconsider a far-reaching decision on eavesdropping

The Justice Department, in an appeal last Wednesday, had urged the court to prevent defendants in "external security" cases from obtaining bugging files

The plea, entered by Solicitor General Erwin Griswold, had urged modification of the March 10 decision "in the interest of self-preservation" of the nation.

The plea included an assertion by the government that wire tapping and eavesdropping to obtain foreign intelligence information are exempt from the restraints imposed by the Fourth Amendment to the U.S Constitution

The court obviously disagreed, but following tradition did not set forth its reasons for declining to reconsider its ruling. Reconsideration is rarely granted.

Thus the action was not entirely unexpected, although the speed with which the court acted raised some eyebrows.

The 5-3 ruling entitled convicted spies, extortionists and other criminal defendants to determine for themselves whether prosecution stemmed from illegal electronic surveillance from federal aegnts.

The ruling dealt specifically with the conviction of a Russian chauffeu, Igo Ivanov, who was

Prospects Dim for Aid in Valley Area

Educationally Disadvantaged Funds?

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Although the Tarr Task Force repeatedly has stressed that big city ghettos should not be the only areas to receive funds for educationally disadvantaged, the Fox Valley area has little hope of getting any aid if appropriations would be made by the 1969 legislature

That was the general feeling expressed by Fox Valley ducators, as well as state education offficials, questioned about that section dealing with school aids for the educationally disadvantaged.

No local official, however, expressed opposition to the $10 million inclusion in the budget by the Task Force, even though chances for funds in this area are nil

A recommendation to establish a special fund of $10 million in the 1969-71 biennium for the State Department of Public Instruction to encourage new programs to assist the educationally disadvantaged throughout Wisconsin was endorsed last week by the Senate Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking Committe

Split Vote

The recommendation, adopted by a 3-2 vote, was part of a package deal including all educational aids and shared tax recommendations of the task force

Educators felt that the impact would be greatest in Milwaukee. The task force, in its explanation on school aids, indicates the major part on the disadvantaged are found in the core areas.

The only area in this vicinity which could conceivably be affected would be poverty pockets as the Oneida-Holbein area.

However, men, as Alan Kingston, concerned with the aid for the Indian education, are uncertain, if not pessimistic about such aid for his area Kingston, of the public instruction department is not alone. Others who feel that such poverty pockets may qualify for state aid, also do not know what criteria would be used for allocations

Indentification Problem

The term "educationaly disadvantaged" is nebulous, and this seems to be the primary reason for uncertainity

Inside The Tarr Report

"I guess one thing we have to identify is who will qualify and who will select those who qualify," said James Morgan, state secretary of revenue.

Concurring was William Kahl, state superintendent, who added the task force had not spelled out the criteria and that the next step could be to get complete data on populations in the state "Then we will have to wait for the amount appropriated by the Legislative," he added

"Although the correlation between poverty and the lack of education is high, it cannot be said that poverty alone is responsible for or synonemous with educational disadvantages," the Tarr report concluded

But despite the lack of a clear definition, local and state officials are more than skeptical, if not certain, the Fox Valley has very little to hope to gain state aids from the program.

Valley Okay

"Like everyone else, we have some youngsters who may come from poor families, but they certainly attend the same schools as everyone else and receive the same kind of training," said a Seymour school official.

He was supported by another rural school superintendent: "It isn't like the Milwaukeee core where those who live in the central city also receive their education in the core schools, which don't always draw the best educators."

However, it also is agreed that education is the one big way to open the door to personal advancement and allow ambitions to be fulfilled

In a March 6 report to the State Legislature on improving the quality of urban and rural life, Gov. Warren P. Knowles said: "It is only through education that the poverty cycle can be broken."

He recommended that a "block grant" appropriation be made to the public instruction department to finance and encourage innovative education projects which give promise of early results

He added, however, that because of the many factors and conflicting pressures which contribute to the educational problems in poverty areas, educators are not certain what programs will produce consistently good results for improving educational opportunities.

"Members of the Tarr Task force studied two federal and 16 state programs only to decide that there is no universally accepted solution," tarr report added.

"The Tarr force also concluded that the innovator of a new plan to assist the educationally disadvantaged should be the local school district and the plan should be developed cooperatively by administrators, teachers, lay citizens and parents"

It also strongly suggested involving several departments in approval or counsultation on various plans, besides the public instruction department. I cluded in the suggestion were the departments of urban affairs, health and social services, and industry Labor and Human Relations.

Your Money's Worth

Last Chance for Many To Sign for Medicare

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you were born on or before Oct. 1, 1901 and are among the estimated one million Americans not yet enrolled for Medicare doctor bill insurance — or if you dropped this protection on or before Jan. 1, 1967 — now is your last chance to sign up for this extraordinary bargain in insurance.

One week from today, March

Porter

31, is the end of 1969's "general enrollment" period for this insurance. By not signing up, the one million not enrolled, including some 200,000 older Americans for whom Social Security does not have current addresses, could lose literally billions of dollars in Medicare benefits

Even if you easily can afford to pay big doctor bills, it would be sheerest folly to ignore this bargain coverage. It might pay up to tens of thousands of dollars in your doctor bills in the event of a catastrophic illness.

Almost everybody aged 65 or over is eligible — whether they are retired or not and whether they have worked under Social Security or not. Only a few recently-arrived immigrants to the U.S. are not yet eligible.

To indicate the scope, Medicare's "Part B," providing for voluntary doctor bill insurance last year, paid 33 million bills totaling $1.6 billion. Today, nearly 19 million Americans are signed up for this insurance, over 95 per cent of the elderly.

It's a Bargain

It's really hard to find a single argument against this insurance. The basic cost to you is $4 per month, an amount matched by the federal government. However, your cost jumps to $4.40 per month if you fail to sign up when you first become eligible at age 65, and rises to $5.20 per month if you sign up three years late. After three years, you become ineligible.

Medicare doctor bill insurance is a bargain not only because of its picayune cost to you, but also because so many elderly Americans become uninsurable at any price at precisely a time of increasing health crises. And most non-Medicare health insurance policies written for the elderly today are tailored specifically to supplement Medicare.

To remind you what Medicare's Part B insurance covers:

Doctors' services in the office, clinic, hospital or home, except routine physical examinations, after you have paid a $50 per year deductible plus 20 per cent of the total cost above this deductible; up to 100 home health visits a year by visiting nurses or any other health workers requested by your doctor: hospital outpatient services such as diagnostic tests, physical therapy, X-rays, surgery and the rental or purchase cost of such medical hardware as artificial limbs, splints and braces, wheel chairs. It does not cover the cost of hearing aids, false teeth, eyeglasses, private nursing, out - of - hospital drugs, dental or psychiatric care.

I can think of only three possible reasons why you may not have signed up for this coverage:

You Must Sign

First, you may not know that you must write or visit your local Social Security office and sign up for the coverage.

Second, you may incorrectly fear you cannot choose the doctor or surgeon you prefer under this program. The fact is you may choose any doctor or surgeon at any hospital or clinic, in any price range. If the fees charged exceed those considered reasonable by Medicare in your area, you simply pay the difference yourself.

A third possible reason is that even a bargain $4 a month (or $48 a year) premium may be too steep for your budget. In this case, I suggest you check whether a company health insurance policy covers this charge (many do); find out from the local welfare office if it normally pays this premium for low-income individuals; as a relative or friend of an elderly person in serious financial straits, consider offering to pay this premium for him.

But above all: make sure all the 65 or over in your acquaintance have signed up for Medicare doctor bill insurance before next Monday.

Bill Would Require Photograph on All State Driver Permits

MADISON — A requirement that all drivers' licenses contain the photograph of the person to whom it has been issued has been proposed in a legislative bill introduced by a group of lawmakers including Sens. Myron Lotto of rural Green Bay and Reuben LaFave of Oconto.

The bill also would give the administrator of the State Division of Motor Vehicles discretionary power to include on the license, information relating to the holder's medical condition.

Fees would be increased 50 cents, to $5.50 for an original license, $4.50 for a chauffeur's license, and $4.50 for the renewal of an ordinary license.

To Your Good Health

Trench Mouth Can be A Persistent Problem

By George C. Thosteson, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has beeen trying to rid himself of trench mouth for a month. Our dentist thinks he got the infection from a cut in the cafeteria where he works. He thinks my husband's very careful oral hygiene, brushing the gums and rinsing the mouth with salt after meals whenever possible, but at least before going to bed every night, should rid him of this dirty pest.

He has not succeeded, however, and now we believe he has infected me, although I wash all our common utensils and glassware carefully, and refrained from kissing so long as he thought he had the infection.

Ho can we stop passing it back and forth? And how can we get rid of it once and for all? I've wondered if the germ remains in his toothbrush. — M.B.S.

This is a touchy subject for me, since the problem is essentially a dental one, and there is a limited amount that a physician can do. From experience, I know that some (not all) dentists are ready to pounce on anything that is said about dental problems. Others, bless 'em, have been kind and constructive in their letters and comments to me.

But the critical ones don't

agree among themselves. One said that a person without teeth can't get trench mouth and insisted that kissing has nothing to do with it. Others contradict him.

For what help it may be to you, I'll offer what I believe to be useful suggestions.

First, the germs causing Vincent's angina (a technical name for trench mouth) are present even in healthy mouths, and at least four types of germs which can cause the trouble have been reported in the literature.

It would appear that other conditions must play a part in the infection's flaring up. Certainly the germs flourish in diseased gums.

Local irritants, food impaction and overhanging fillings all have been suggested as contributing factors. Tartar should be removed from teeth, which must be done by your dentist. You can't do it yourself.

Use of vitamin A, in moderate doses, to perk up the resistance of mucous membranes, has been recommended by some, scorned by others. At least it will do no harm.

Possibly a dilute peroxide or perborate mouth rinse would be more effective than salt. Painting with a weak gentian violet solution may help the gums.

If your husband's gums have receded, one of the devices using a jet of water may be more effective in cleaning between his teeth.

I would doubt that the infection is continuing because of germs remaining on your husband's toothbrush, as the germs should not remain viable when the brush dries. Anyway, they would be only a sampling of germs that are more prevalent in his mouth.

If the trouble is not beginning to clear up, I would go back to the dentist and see whether further attention — removal of tartar, repair of fillings, etc. — is required.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 5-year-old daughter swallowed a chicken bone. I didn't see it, but she cried and said a bone was caught in her throat. I fed her a few pieces of bread and soon she said it was gone and didn't complain any more. I wonder if she should see a doctor? — N.G.C.

That was excellent first aid. There should be no further trouble.

Note to W. M.: No, douching is not "necessary to feminine hygiene," and it can be harmful, mainly by causing irritation and removing natural protective secretions. Best rule: douch only on doctor's orders.

you...and your
First Wisconsin
Charge Card.

Merchants who honor it, get their money promptly. But you still have "charging" convenience at no cost to you.

Do you know why this is possible?

If you've ever wondered how the "Charge Card system" works, we hope this message will clarify things for you.

Let's say you make a $20.00 purchase with your Charge Card at a participating merchant. No money changes hands. Yet, within a few days, the merchant has the payment credited to his business account. It's paid by the sponsoring Charge Card bank, as soon as he turns in his copy of the sales slip.

Time is on your side.

But you don't pay for at least several weeks. For example, if you make your purchase on the 20th of the month, and your billing date is on the 15th of the following month, you could gain 30 days of free credit. (It's 25 days to your statement date—and you have 25 days beyond that to pay your bill.) If you pay in full, it costs nothing extra. It's like a regular charge account. Except that your Charge Card is honored at more than 13,000 business places in Wisconsin.

The plot thickens.

So—the merchant has been paid—and you have the convenience of "charging" your purchase. But what makes it worthwhile for the sponsoring bank?

Here's what: The Charge Card system takes the merchant out of the credit business—and he's glad to pay something for that. He pays a yearly membership fee of $15.00, which also helps to cover the cost of his supplies and Charge Card imprinter. And he pays a fee of up to 4% of Charge Card sales. In the example we have cited, the merchant's fee to the sponsoring bank would be no more than 80 cents. (4% of $20.00.) And it's a bargain for him, because he's relieved of the time-consuming and costly chores of making out bills, mailing bills and collecting bills.

If the merchant can't afford to do all this for 80 cents, how can the bank do it?

Only because the entire procedure is computerized. Without today's sophisticated computer systems, there could be no such thing as a universally accepted Charge Card. And, until a few years ago, there wasn't.

But now there is, and it's available to everyone who qualifies.

An invitation.

If you've never had a First Wisconsin Charge Card—or if you don't have a current, valid card, apply for one now. It's really the most convenient way of shopping in our modern, mobile society. Ask any participating retailer or sponsoring bank for an application form. Or, just send the coupon and you'll hear from us within a few days.

Miss Appleton Finalists Look Fashionable Best at Jaycee Show

Miss Maribeth Hartwig, Miss Appleton 1968, reminisces about the past year with contestants, Miss Bonnie Fink, Miss Peggy Jo Pike and Miss Peggy Louise Sousek. Below, Michael Gerrity offers a helping hand to finalists. Miss Sandra Peotter as she and Miss Mary Louise Chopin model summer fashions.

For one of the 12 Miss Appleton finalists, the future holds a wealth of wonderfully unique experiences and responsibilities that belong only to a young lady who wears the crown of Miss Appleton 1969.

With April 12, the day of the pageant, drawing ever closer and the suspense increasing by the hour as each member of the finalists prepare for the culminating event, it seemed only fitting that the theme of the annual Jaycees Fish and Fashion Show be "Reach for Tomorrow."

Wearing fashions from Wohlford's Fashion Corner, the contestants shone for the public Friday evening at Reetz's Supper Club.

Chairmen were Richard Murphy and Mrs. Don Brock assisted by co-chairmen, Michael Gerrity and Mrs. Dan Abitz. Mrs. Robin Long had charge of tickets. Committee members were Mrs. Lowell Leininger, Mrs. Gerald Kraft, Mrs. David Tuch, Mrs. James Esler, Mrs Keith Long, and Mrs Richard Offenbecher.

Teaching and nursing, in addition to marriage, rank as the top careers attracting young women. But how many gals have thought of college administration as a possible career, particularly in the fields of admissions counseling and student housing?

At Monmouth College, a co-educational liberal arts college located 180 miles west of Chicago in Monmouth, Ill., two 23-year-old's hold prominent positions in both departments.

Miss Patricia Pirolli is the 116-year-old institution's Chicago suburban area admissions counselor, and Miss Susan Osteen is the college's director of women's housing, just to name two.

Throughout the administration and faculty at Monmouth, youth for both men and women members is the rule, not the exception. Miss Osteen, who is responsible for coordinating and programming all the various aspects relating to the housing of women students, explains: "My age is definitely an asset. The students are more receptive to me because I'm closer to them in age and outlook, and as a result, we understand each other much better."

Attract Students

What about Miss Pirolli, who is responsible for attracting new students to attend Monmouth? She mixes a great deal of youth with another commodity peculiar to the young—enthusiasm. "I'm not that much older than most high school seniors, so they feel they can talk to me. But my primary concern is to find students interested in a liberal arts college like Monmouth. It takes personal interest in each individual to succeed in this position. Youth helps, but being a woman doesn't hurt, either."

Once Miss Pirolli has interested a student in attending Monmouth as an undergraduate, she stays in touch with that student until he or she arrives on campus in the fall. That's when Miss Osteen takes over, counseling and guiding the women students during those first few frightening weeks away from home

Try to be Friend

Miss Osteen evaluates her job this way. "I don't see myself as an administrator during those first few weeks. At first I try to be a friend, counseling the new students and helping them through orientation. Later, I play additional roles. I give lots of advice, and do a lot of listening. I also end up being an authority figure, and in many instances, a mother."

Women who work with college students find the experience one that is richly rewarding, both in prestige and personal satisfaction. Moth Miss Pirolli and Miss Osteen can call themselves "executives" at the ripe old age of 23.

Rare Boy Meets a Well-Done Girl

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Can a man who eats his steaks 'rare" find happiness with a woman who is a "well done?"

Experts say yes I say no.

My husband and I thought we had checked out every aspect of our personalities to make a good marriage We were both of the same faith, same zodiac sign, same neighborhood, same schools, same age, same politics With a lot of luck we figured, we'd have the perfect marriage if we didn't die first of boredom Then it happened.

On our honeymoon we stopped at a restaurant where my husband ordered steaks for both of us. When they arrived at the table I leaned over and whispered, "I didn't order ham, dear. I ordered steak."

"That is steak," he said. "It's a little rare."

"A little rare!" I gasped.

"It's cooked the way a steak was meant to be cooked," he said stubbornly.

"Let me guess Under a flashlight."

"At least try it. Believe me, after you've eaten steak rare you'll never eat it any other way."

"How can I eat it when I can't even look at it. Please," I coaxed, "let me give it a shot of penicillin and a transfusion and nurse it back to health."

"Will you stop making a big deal out of a piece of meat. Look, see how it retains its natural juices."

As I watched him a curious thing happened His ears became pointed, his nose extended, his teeth sharpened into fangs and his face became furry. "Animal!" I charged and exited to the powder room

It didn't end there. Throughout the years we have both been bent on each other's conversion. Since I am the cook (hold it down, laughers), our meals sound like a cease-fire negotiation.

"What in heaven's name is this?" he asks.

"What part? The hoof?"

"Not until Smokey The Bear says its safe."

"It's not that dry."

"Then why can't I smoke at the table?"

"You are just being stubborn. . .etc. etc. etc."

I give the marriage another 20 or 30 years . . . then someone will have to give.

Family Service Board Members Get End of Second Year Report

Officers and incumbent board members of Family Service Association of the Fox Valley, Inc., had an opportunity to meet new board members and hear a report on the end of the United Fund agency's second year of operation Wednesday noon at Alex's Manor House.

Robert Gellert, executive director, told the group the association has been searching for a social worker to assist with the "highly complex type of counseling," required for the agency. He reported that despite the fact that the position of social worker has not been filled up to this time, the agency has seen 249 families in marital, parent-child or individual counseling. Referrals have come from the clergy, lawyers, other agencies, schools and from individuals seeking help "on their own." Fees for assistance at Family Service are based on "ability to pay," Gellert said.

Survey Family Life

The board also heard about the survey of the Family Life Education programs throughout the Fox Cities being conducted by the agency. In explaining the reason for the survey, Gellert said, "If there is any truth in the statement that 80 per cent of the basic learning of a child takes place by the time he is eight years old, then honest and humane information had better be available in a child's home.

The board of directors of Family Service is made up "of concerned citizens whose charge it is to see that the agency is responsive to the needs of the community." Each year one-third of its membership is renewed to assure new ideas and community involvement.

This year the following persons were elected to serve another term: Mrs. J. W. Bach and Mrs. Henry Tollette, both of Neenah; William Branta, Mrs. Maynard Burstein, Mrs. Edwin Cunningham, Dr. C. E. Fenlon, Cyrus Rachie and A. O. Zieman.

New members elected were: Jack Close, Mrs. W. U. Day, Neenah; Kenneth Navine, Neenah. There are 19 other members on the board.

Offices are the Rev. John Hanchett, Menasha, president; Mrs. Maynard Burstein, vice president; William Branta and Sister Mary Sebastian.

Summer Signals Return To Light, Airy Footwear

Let poets rhapsodize about a day in spring. Children know its most joyous aspect is the shedding of winter clothing and the dash outside to play. But if the annual ceremony of taking off is one of the delights of warm weather, this shedding can be overdone when it comes to children's shoes.

Let the sturdy school shoes come off, by all means, says the National Footwear Institute, but don't let them take it all off. Restrict barefoot running to the beach and avoid it in the backyard or on the sidewalk, where there are hazards from nails or broken glass. Ringworm and other parasites can be a danger too.

Feel Light, Airy

Instead, see that the children wear something light and airy on their feet. Sandals are an ideal solution. Some have a sturdy, cushioned sole that would please the most health-conscious mother, and at the same time, they're bare and cool. Handsome, too.

The barest ones are the thongs, some of them with toe rings. The thongs can be wide enough to cover the instep, or they can be little spaghetti thins. Quite a lot of them are done in villager leathers and some are fringed to go with the beaded clothes and headbands and all the other Indian things that are making a lot of wampum in the children's market for summer.

Look Like Wood

There are also sandals that are very covered up, some with closed heels and toes. These are usually perforated and heavily buckled, with extension soles, and made of rough finished leathers or leathers that look like wood. Some have a covered up instep and are open everywhere else. Colors for these are mostly the golden tans or dark mahoganies.

So far, everything said can apply to either the boys' or girls' styles. Girls, of course, also have all the delicate criss-cross and T-straps that are done in petal pastels or icy whites. These are trimmed with flowers or cut-outs or multicolored overlays. They can be scalloped at the edge or cooled off with big portholes and come in cool straws and linens and the man-made patents that clean like a breeze.

Chaminade Chorus at 27th Annual Concert

It Was a Step Into Spring

Robert Lamont, director of the chorus, and his wife, and Mrs. Richard Walbrun, president of Chaminade Chorus, and Mr. Walbrun discuss the program at the Sunday night gathering for relatives and friends of chorus members

A hush fell over the audience as members of Chaminade Women's Chorus filed on stage at Lawrence Memorial Chapel Sunday evening to present their 27th annual concert, Stepping Into Spring. Looking like a huge bouquet of spring flowers, the women, dressed in pastel evening gowns, opened their program with Audalucia and devoted the first segment of the program to a series of lovely old folk songs.

Then it was Easter as the chorus, this time on a stage with a church-like atmosphere, changed the mood of their music to the beauty of religious¾ songs.

In the final act of the program, the musical selections declared the arrival of spring. Almost like magic, the stage became a pretty backyard complete with trees, potted plants, a rose covered trellis and a waterfall with its accompanying babbling brook sound. The chorus resounded with songs that made you believe it was, indeed, spring.

Director of the chorus is Robert Lamont; accompanist, Helen Richter. Special guest performers were Paul Emmons at the organ and John Haugner, soloist. Soloists from the chorus were Mrs. Evelyn Warming, Miss Margaret Schafer, Mrs. F. William Dunaway, Mrs. Peter J. Gietman Jr., Mrs. Gordon Hueller and Mrs. Lloyd Herwig.

Arriving After the concert for the reception at First Methodist Church were members of the chorus, Mrs. David Derfus, Mrs. Kenneth De Witt, Mrs. Howard Zachek and Mrs. John Vanden Elsen.

Mrs. Peter Gietman Jr. and John Haugner can't resist the temptation to try a rendition of a song in the Jeannette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy manner. Both Mrs. Gietman and Mr. Haugner were concert soloists. (Post - Crescent Photos by Edward Deschler Jr.)

At the Reception immediately after the concert, members and guests gathered for refreshments and chatter about the concert. Mrs. Don Kosbab serves Mrs. Paul Killian punch. With them are Miss Sue Appleton, William Marx and Mr. Killian.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR EASTER

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at H. C. Prange Company and other stores with fashion spirit.

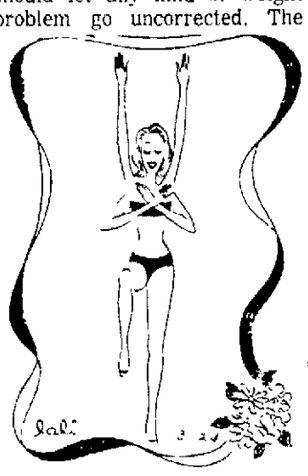
Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Exercise Works Wonders

A perfectly proportioned figure appears less than ideal when it moves awkardly. In fact, were a woman graceful, she could be a bit too thin or too plump and no one would notice.

This is not to say that you should let any kind of weight problem go uncorrected. The point here is how much gracefulness contributes to a figure's attractiveness.



For springtime willowness, you first must be limber. Your joints and muscles must possess a high degree of flexibility. The key to it is regular exercise. And a major factor in the loss of it is physical inactivity. Be you teen or umpteen, your joints and muscles grow rusty from disuse, and your movement becomes a thing of fits and starts.

Limberness comes and stays with those who participate in a sport or workouts. If you prefer the latter, here's what you do for a start:

Stand tall with feet together, arms at sides, and then. . .

1. Swing arms high overhead and, at the same time, come up on tiptoes; stretch hard in waist and come back to starting position.

3 Cross wrists on chest so that fingertips touch shoulder joints; briskly swing arms to full extension at shoulder level and return to crossed wrists.

Repeat each part 10 times before going on the next. And you'll be limber.

You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hipline is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, Hip Reducing Routines. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

Your Problems

Teen Seeks Advice Regarding Brother

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl with a mentally retarded brother. He is seven years older than I. Lately I've been wondering what will become of him when Mom and Dad pass on.

In addition to being retarded, my brother has a spinal problem and is completely helpless. He needs to be bathed, fed and dressed like an infant. I'm beginning to wonder if the responsibility will fall on me. Please don't think I am selfish or cruel, but I don't want the burden of my handicapped brother. It could spoil my chances for marriage.

I have never heard of a place that cares for people who are both retarded and crippled. Have you? I wouldn't dare discuss this with my parents. Please help me. — Cloudy Future

Dear Cloudy: You must discuss this with your parents. It is their responsibility to see that your brother is provided for after they are gone. An insurance policy purchased early would guarantee good care in a private institution. It would also give your parents peace of mind. I hope they have such a policy.

If there are no funds for private care, and no willing relative, the patient becomes a ward of the state and is sent to a state institution.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several of us cameramen here at Universal Studios in Hollywood read your column and discuss it regularly. Five times in the past two months you have published letters with the same basic theme — "Men are animals, interested only in satisfying their own sexual needs."

Landers

The letter that really ticked me off was the one from the wife who said she felt like a prostitute. According to her, sex was a nuisance and a bore. She got nothing from it but exhaustion. She said she was willing to put up with it, however, in exchange for respectability and the financial security of marriage.

You've stated many times that women who are married to inept, clumsy lovers should teach them. (Night school, remember?) Well, I say men can teach night school classes, too. And they should. An inexperienced bride is often fearful, inhibited and motionless. A man who is loving and considerate can work wonders with even the dumbest partner if she is willing to learn. — J.M.

Dear J.M.: Bravo. The operative words are communication, cooperation and unselfishness. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother was very disappointed when I married Philip. She felt he wasn't good enough for me because his parents were foreign born and not "society."

Every morning Mother telephones to make some cutting remark about him, such as "Philip's sox were baggy last night. Does he own garters?" Or "Philip offended Mrs. Beck because he ignored her and talked to the woman at his right all through dinner." I hate to hear the phone ring in the morning. Right now my stomach is tied up in knots. I need your advice. — Uptight

Dear Up: Tell your mother you refuse to tolerate any further criticism of your husband. If she forgets, chop her off in mid-sentence.

'Senseless' Play Helps Win Game

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"Pfui!" said the Old Kibitzer. "These modern bridge players are such smart alecks that I can't bear to watch them. They go out of their way to do unusual things instead of playing simple, sensible bridge." And he stamped out of the club, shaking his head angrily.

West had opened the four of clubs, and South thought before playing from the dummy. Meanwhile, the Old Kibitzer mentally played the ace of clubs and was mentally playing the next three tricks. Finally, South played the low club from dummy at the first trick. This was the "senseless" play that incensed the old gentleman and drove him home to his television set.

East took the first trick with the queen of clubs and returned a club to dummy's ace. Declarer returned a diamond from dummy, and East took the ace of diamonds and got out safely with a low diamond.

South ruffed the diamond in dummy, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the king of diamonds and led a spade to try a finesse with dummy's ten.

No Safe Return

East won with the queen of spades but could not make a safe return. If East returned a spade, dummy would get a free finesse; and if East returned anything else, dummy would ruff while South discarded a spade South made his contract, losing only one club, one diamond and one spade.

The Old Kibitzer missed the point of the first play, which gave the club trick to East. If Declarer took the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, West could later win a club trick with the jack. West would then lead a spade, rescuing his partner from the end play. East could get two spade tricks, and the contract would go up in smoke

Answer: Pass. The hand is just a shade too light for an opening bid. Change the jack of diamonds to the queen, and you could open the hand with one heart.

Dear Lois: My children have the all-too-normal habit of outgrowing the sleeve length of their coats and jackets while the rest still fits. I measure their wrists, make ribbed cuffs and sew them up inside the sleeve.—Maryellen McW.

Dear Maryellen: Every homemaker should strive to be a wise steward of all monies earned. Knitting is a talent that can be used for fun, for therapy and for a very practical wardrobe. Your knitting tip is one that has been used by many mothers and I'm hpapy to remind those who have not tried it.

In cold parts of the country this is also a good idea for leggins and snow caps. The life of baby sleepers can be extended with new knitted feet of synthetic yarns. One word of caution: If baby is wearing synthetic footlets or sleepers extended with this type of yarn, they are dangerous on hardwood or any waxed floors. If the child will be playing only on carpeted areas, this is fime. Otherwise, take a few moments to cut out the sole of another fabric (that is washable and not slippery) and sew in place. A penny saved is more than a penny earned in these days, for it is the penny saved after all the deductions are taken out. Thank you, Maryellen, for the tip and your encouraging comments.

Dear readers: Since we're on the subject of saving money, I want to repeat something I tell my own students over and again. There is no need for one piece of yarn to go to waste, whether you crochet Granny-type against or you have a knitting machine and knit robes of hit-and-miss stripes quick footlets or small lap and donate them to the crippled children's home or some convalescent home.

If you are creative, however, and love to work out special color combinations for embroidery work, trims and so forth, do not feel guilty keeping odds and ends on hand to work with. Keep them sorted according to colors in plastic bags so they will be clean and with the labels identifying brands and dye lots.

You can use your imagination a lot easier working with actual pieces of yarns than sample cards. Many times you'll find you have exactly enough to trim or to make an entire extra garment among yarn leftovers. The thing I abhor is to hear someone say, "I have a closet just loaded with yarn." My advice is a slogan used by one of the country's leading department stores. "Well, don't just sit there, knit!"

NOTICE OF REFERENDUM ELECTION
April 1, 1969

STATE OF WISCONSIN)
(SS)
County of Outagamie)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that at an election to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election districts of Outagamie County, Wisconsin, on the first Tuesday of April, A.D., 1969, being the First day of said month, the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin, having been approved by two successive legislatures, will be submitted to a vote of the people pursuant to law:

Deposited February 25, 1969
Jt. Res No. 8S
No. 2, 1969
ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article IV, sections 23 and 23a of the constitution, relating to uniformity of county government (2nd consideration).

WHEREAS at the general session of the legislature in the year 1967 an amendment to the constitution was proposed by assembly joint resolution 18 and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows.

"(Article IV) Section 23. The legislature shall establish but one system of town and county government, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable, except that the requirement of uniformity shall not apply to the administrative means of exercising powers of a local legislative character conferred by section 22 upon the boards of supervisors of the several counties; but the legislature may provide for the election at large once in every xxx four xxx 4 years of a chief executive officer in any county having a population of five-hundred thousand or more xxx with such powers of an administrative character as they may from time to time prescribe in accordance with this section.

Section 23a. Every resolution or ordinance passed by the county board in any county xxx having a population of five hundred thousand or more xxx shall, before it becomes effective, be presented to the chief executive officer. If he approves, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it with his objections, which objections shall be entered at large upon the journal and the board shall proceed to reconsider the matter. Appropriations may be approved in whole or in part by the chief executive officer and the part approved shall become law, and the part objected to shall be returned in the same manner as provided for in other resolutions or ordinances. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members elect of the county board agree to pass the resolution or ordinance or the part of the resolution or ordinance objected to, it shall become effective on the date prescribed but not earlier than the date of passage following reconsideration. In all such cases, the votes of the members of the county board shall be determined by ayes and xxx nays xxx noes and the names of the members voting for or against the resolution or ordinance or the part thereof objected to shall be entered on the journal. If any resolution or ordinance is not returned by the chief executive officer to the county board at its first meeting occurring not less than xxx six xxx days, Sundays excepted, after it has been presented to him, it shall become effective unless the county board has recessed or adjourned for a period in excess of xxx sixty xxx 60 days, in which case it shall not be effective without his approval". Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring. That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature; and be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1969 and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state; and, be it further

Resolved That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows.

"Shall sections 23 and 23a of article IV of the constitution be amended to provide that the requirement for uniformity of county government shall not apply to the administrative means of exercising powers of a local legislative character conferred by the constitution upon county boards and that the legislature may provide for all counties to have an elected chief executive officer with veto power?".

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification.

"A 'yes' vote would require the legislature to provide for an elected county chief executive in every county who would have veto power over resolutions and ordinances passed by the county board, and would enable the legislature to provide that such chief executive officers in the various counties have the same or different administrative and supervisory duties where the exercise of powers of a local legislative character were concerned. Such elected chief executive officer with similar powers is presently permitted only in counties of over 500,000 population and presently has the powers set fourth in Art. IV, Sections 23 and 23a, Wis. Const., and Section 59.031 Stats. If the amendments are adopted the legislature could grant similar, additional, or lesser administrative powers to county chief executive officers, without uniformity as to all counties."

"A 'no' vote would leave the present, uniformity of the system of county government unchanged. Counties of over 500,000 population (only Milwaukee at present) would continue to have an elected chief executive officer with veto powers and with extensive administrative duties now set forth in Section 59.031, Stats. County boards of supervisors in other counties would uniformly retain the sole power to enact resolutions and ordinances relative matters of a local legislative character and in those counties the administrative means of exercising powers of a local legislative character would continue to be required to be as uniform as practicable for all counties."

Jt. Res. No. 1A Deposited March 4, 1969
No. 3, 1969
ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article VIII, section 7 of the constitution, granting the state the authority to contract debt and borrow money for various public purposes (2nd consideration).

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1967 an amendment to the constitution was proposed, by Assembly Joint Resolution 1, and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows

"(Article VIII) Section 7. (1) The legislature may also borrow money to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the state in time of war; but the money thus raised shall be applied exclusively to the object for which the loan was authorized, or to the repayment of the debt thereby created.

(2) Any other provision of this constitution to the contrary notwithstanding:

(a) The state may contract public debt and pledges to the payment thereof its full faith, credit and taxing power to acquire, construct, develop, extend, enlarge or improve land, waters, property, highways, buildings, equipment or facilities for public purposes.

(b) The aggregate public debt contracted by the state in any calendar year pursuant to paragraph (a) shall not exceed an amount equal to the lesser of:

1. Three-fourths of one per centum of the aggregate value of all taxable property in the state; or

2. Five per centum of the aggregate value of all taxable property in the state less the sum of: A. the aggregate public debt of the state contracted pursuant to this section outstanding as of January 1 of such calendar year after subtracting therefrom the amount of sinking funds on hand on January 1 of such calendar year which are applicable exclusively to repayment of such outstanding public debt and, b. the outstanding indebtedness as of January 1 of such calendar year of any entity of the type described in paragraph (d) to the extent that such indebtedness is supported by or payable from payments out of the treasury of the state.

(c) The state may contract public debt, without limit, to fund or refund the whole or any part of any public debt contracted pursuant to paragraph (a), including any premium payable with respect thereto and any interest to accrue thereon, or to fund or refund the whole or any part of any indebtedness incurred prior to January 1, 1972, by any entity of the type described in paragraph (d), including any premium payable with respect thereto and any interest to accrue thereon.

(d) No money shall be paid out of the treasury, with respect to any lease, sublease or other agreement entered into after January 1, 1971, to the Wisconsin State Agencies Building Corporation, Wisconsin State Colleges Building Corporation, Wisconsin State Public Building Corporation, Wisconsin University Building Corperation or any similar entity existing or operating for similar purposes pursuant to which such non-profit corporation or such other entity undertakes to finance or provide a facility for use or occupancy by the state or an agency, department or instrumentality thereof.

(e) The legislature shall prescribe all matters relating to the contracting of public debt pursuant to paragraph (a), including: the public purposes for which public debt may be contracted; by vote of a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses of the legislature, the amount of public debt which may be contracted for any class of such purposes; the public debt or other indebtedness which may be funded or refunded; the kinds of notes, bonds or other evidence of public debt which may be issued by the state; and the manner in which the aggregate value of all taxable property in the state shall be determined.

(f) The full faith, credit and taxing power of the state are pledged to the payment of all public debt created on behalf of the state pursuant to this section and the legislature shall provide by appropriation for the payment of the interest upon and installments of principal of all such public debt as the same falls due, but, in any event, suit may be brought against the state to compel such payment.

(g) At any time after January 1, 1972, by vote of a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses of the legislature, the legislature may declare that an emergency exists and submit to the people a proposal to authorize the state to contract a specific amount of public debt for a purpose specified in such proposal, without regard to the limit provided in paragraph (b). Any such authorization shall be effective if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon. Public debt contracted pursuant to such authorization shall thereafter be deemed to have been contracted pursuant to paragraph (a), but neither such public debt nor any public debt contracted to fund or refund such public debt shall be considered in computing the debt limit provided in paragraph (b). Not more than one such authorization shall be thus made in any 2-year period." Now, therefore be it

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring. That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature; and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1969 and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state; and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 7 of article VIII of the constitution be amended to permit the state to contract public debt, limited in amount, in order to acquire, construct, develop, extend, enlarge or improve land, waters, property, highways, buildings, equipment or facilities for public purposes, and eliminate reliance on the present method of financing such expenditures through leases with dummy building corporations? (NOTE: Adoption of this amendment would end the practice of borrowing through 'dummy' building corporations which, as of 12-1-67, had an outstanding indebtedness of $382,511,869. Beginning 1-1-71 borrowing through state public building corporations would be unconstitutional, and all bonds issued for the state building program would be backed by the full faith and credit of the state.)".

EXPLANATION

Direct state borrowing for public improvements is now prohibited by the State Constitution. In order for the State of Wisconsin to finance many of its public improvements or projects, such as highway construction, building construction, etc., it is necessary to use private, non-profit building corporations. The state pays for these improvements by making rental payments for a period of years to the private corporations for the use of the improvements. When the cost of the improvement is recovered by the corporation, the state retains the improvement and is not obligated to make any further rental payments.

Adoption of this Constitutional Amendment by a "yes" vote will prohibit the state from further financing through the private building corporations and allow direct state borrowing to finance these public improvements.

Adoption of this Constitutional Amendment will authorize state debt but will limit such debt to approximately five per cent of the value of all taxable property in the state

ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTION

Relating to an advisory referendum on state assumption of vocational, technical and adult education costs.

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring. That there be submitted for advisory purposes only, to the voters of the state at the April 1969 election, the following question:

"Should vocational, technical and adult education be controlled by the state and paid for out of state tax revenues? (NOTE: Vocational, technical and adult education is now controlled locally and principally paid for from local property tax revenues.)"

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification.

This referendum is advisory only. A "yes" vote indicates that the voter favors state control and financing of vocational, technical and adult education. A "no" vote indicates that the voter favors retention of the present system of vocational, technical and adult education with financing in part from state aids and in part from monies raised in the district through the property tax

Jt. Res. No. 17A Deposited March 4, 1969
No. 5, 1969
ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTION

Providing for an advisory referendum on water pollution abatement and outdoor resource preservation and recreational development

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring. That there be submitted, for advisory purposes only, to the voters of the state at the spring election to be held in April 1969, the following questions:

"1. Do you favor a program subject to biennial legislative review of greater state aid to municipalities for accelerated water pollution abatement facilities through the issuance of bonds?"

"2. Do you favor a program subject to biennial legislative review which would expand the state acquisition and development of land program for recreational purposes through the issuance of bonds?"

EXPLANATION

A yes vote to question number one would be advice to the legislature that the voter favors a program which would increase the state aids made available to municipalities for the construction of water pollution facilities. Payment for such aids would be postponed and spread over a future period of time through the issuance of bonds. The majority view of the voters answering this question would not be binding upon the legislature but would be advisory only

A yes vote to question number two would be advice to the legislature that the voter favors a program which would expand the state acquisition and development of land for camping, fishing, hunting, swimming and other recreational purposes. Payment for such an expanded program would be postponed and spread over a future period through the issuance of bonds. The majority view of the voters answering this question would not be binding upon the legislature but would be advisory only

I, ROBERT C. ZIMMERMAN, Secretary of State of the State of Wisconsin, DO HEREBY CERTIFY that the above and foregoing proposed constitutional amendments, known as Joint Resolutions Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5, 1969, have been compared by me with the original enrolled joint resolutions on file in this department, and that the same are true copies thereof and of the whole of such joint resolutions.

Bill Focuses On Disability Benefits Hike

State Indemnity Schedule Would Follow Wage Trends

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Substantial increases in the indemnity schedule under the state Workmen's Compensation Act are proposed in legislation introduced into the State Senate at the request of a labor-management advisory committee of the State Department of Labor, Industry and Human Relations.

A spokesman for the agency explained that historically the pioneering Wisconsin act paying indemnities to covered employes injured or killed on their jobs has followed wage trends.

He noted that the average wage paid in Wisconsin during the last two years has increased substantially.

Whether the new indemnity schedules may bring about an increase in workmen's compensation insurance rates could not be immediately learned. One official noted that such rates were recently reduced, because of a declining loss ratio in the state, and speculated that the insurance rate revisions in the future would depend on accident and loss experience

Normal Adjustments

The legislature normally enacts such indemnity adjustments as recommended by the department which administers the program.

The changes asked include

— For temporary disability per week, $79 instead of $73

— For permanent total disability or death, $79 weekly for total disability instead of $73, and $56 43 weekly for death benefits instead of $52 14

— For permanent partial disability, $48.50 instead of $47 50 weekly.

The new bill also would bring under the compensation act volunteer workers in charitable, educational and similar institutions such as churches, hospitals and schools.

Tax Formula Bill Clears Committee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Senate Committee on Taxation in a 3 to 2 vote has recommended for passage the redistribution on a new basis of the multi-million dollar sums of state taxes shared with localities

The recommendation of the committee, headed by Sen Gerald Lorge-R of Bear Creek, will be reported to the State Senate when it returns to session Tuesday

Devised by the Tarr Task Force on Local Government Finance and Organization, the measure would wipe out a complex of present methods of distributing separate tax collections, and substitute a single formula based on per capita grants to localities of $30, plus shares to localities with an equalized property tax rate of more than 20 mills.

At a hearing, most of the larger cities of Wisconsin supported the measure as more equitable than present arrangements, but some suburbs and other localities denounced it indignantly.

The measure's principal objective is to eliminate or reduce the advantages of so-called "tax islands" under the present distribution laws.

Seven From Valley Earn State Licenses To Sell Securities

MADISON — Licenses to work as salesmen of securities have been issued to seven Fox River Valley residents, the State Department of Securities reports

They include C M Hennig, Oshkosh, Carl M Hennig, Inc., J E. Huff, Appleton, Linsco Corp., A G W Johnson, Oshkosh, Schultz Securities, Inc., K J Kavanaugh, Kaukauna, The Milwaukee Co., R. A Remmel, Kimberly, First American Corp., B H Romberg, Appleton, Robert W Baird and Co., and J. F. Wheeler, Neenah, Thomson and McKinnon and Co

Water Passenger and Cargo Controls Sought

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Arni Richter of Washington Island, Door County, wants carriers of passengers or cargo by water to be franchised and regulated by the state in the same way that common carriers on land are under state supervision

At his request, a bill requiring such carriers to show public convenience and necessity to be certificated has been introduced into the legislature by Sen Alex Meunier of Sturgeon Bay and Assemblyman L H Johnson of Door County, who represent Door County.

Jail Chaplaincy Plan Offered By Clergymen

'Official' Representatives Would Have More Freedom in Dealings

A regular and official jail chaplaincy program, set up with the cooperation of the sheriff's department, has been proposed by the Appleton Area Clergy Association.

The program, proposed some time ago by the association, has already been approved by the sheriff's department and will be started as soon as the clergy association appoints the men to work with the program.

At a meeting of the association this morning, it was explained that the work of these chaplains will not preclude any visits or work in the jail done by clergy of parishes, as in the past.

However, the "official" chaplains will be accorded greater freedom, a proposal explained.

Regular Duty

Chaplains will be on call regularly to respond to needs in the jail. They also will serve as liason with other members of the clergy for prisoners who want to see specific clergymen.

In other business, the association also approved a letter to be sent to the Appleton Common Council, urging the members to reconsider the issue of the election of the city administrative offices.

"We concur with the statement of the committee on city governmental operations which says that the administrative offices should be staffed by appointive personnel qualified in their area of specialization and responsible to the may and common council," the letter states.

The appointive procedure had been defeated in a referendum a few years ago.

School Activities

Also under discussion was a policy adopted by the board of education some time ago that Wednesday afternoons and evenings were to be kept clear of school activities to allow churches to schedule their educational activities.

Since that time, the policy has been "eroded" according to some of the clergymen.

In most of the churches, activities are scheduled on Wednesdays and it was agreed that a representative of the association attend a meeting to discuss the policy with the board.

A nominating committee to select names for new officers was announced. Serving on it are the Rev. Charles Holmgren, Trinity Lutheran; the Rev. Richard Colenso, Christian and Missionary Alliance; and the Rev. Wilbert Staudenmaier, Sacred Heart Catholic.

Rural Seymour Woman Dies of Crash Injuries

2-Car Accident in Pittsfield Fatal To Dianne De Hate

A 26-year-old rural Seymour woman became Brown County's fourth highway fatality Saturday night after she died of injuries suffered in a two-car crash Friday.

Mrs. Dianne M. De Hate was one of 12 persons to die on Wisconsin highways this weekend, bringing the year's toll to 141 compared with 221 on this date in record 1968.

Mrs. De Hate was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Green Bay after her car swerved into the left lane of traffic and collided with a car driven by Ronald Miller, 19, 1070 Valley View Road, Green Bay.

Treated for Cuts

Miller and a passenger were treated for facial and leg cuts and released.

The accident occurred on State 29 in Pittsfield about 8 p.m. Friday. She died 24 hours later.

The De Hate car was demolished and damage to the Miller car was estimated at $1,000.

Arrangements are being handled at the Muehl Funeral Home at Seymour.

In other weekend accidents, three persons died in a two-car collision Saturday night in Richland County. Raymond Serch, 56, of Madison, died Sunday. Othello Olson, 59, of Harpers Ferry, Iowa, and his wife, Laura, 37, died in the crash two miles west of Blue River.

Near Union Grove

Elizabeth Masters, 19, of rural Franksville, died Sunday when her car ran off State 20 near Union Grove and crashed into a ditch.

Mrs. Clara Trout, 51, of Green Bay, was fatally injured Saturday night in a two-car crash on U.S. 141 near Lena.

Mrs. Edward Sharp Sr., of Duluth, Minn., died Saturday in a two-car crash near Ashland.

Valdis Avotins, 21, of Milwaukee, was fatally injured Saturday night when his car hit a utility pole in Milwaukee.

Other weekend victims were James Lauritzen, 19, of Wild Rose; Kenneth Bornick, 17, of Evansville, Calvin Crumbliss Jr., 22, of Agonquin, Ill., and Lillian Kudrycki, 15, of Kenosha.

Meat Prices Going Up

That Steak You Broil This Summer May be Real Treat

By ED DE MOCH

CHICAGO (AP) — You probably will be paying more money for steaks and fine cuts of meat at your favorite restaurant one of these days soon, and within a few weeks cheaper grades of meat will cost you more money.

The reason? Prices of top grade steers have been advancing almost every day at the Chicago Stockyards and last Friday touched $35 a hundredweight, which equalled a 10-year high at the yards.

Not many top grade steer cuts reach the average neighborhood meat counter. Prime meat grade cuts sell at a rather high premium, compared to the more plentiful choice grade, which usually end up at the tables of most of this country's kitchens. Prime steers are quickly picked up for hotel service, private clubs and the so-called better eating places as well as meat shops that can command higher prices.

Costs Go Up

But it generally takes a little time before these costs are passed on to consumers.

With the rise in recent weeks of prime prices, there has been grade steer carcasses, or the finished steer.

Prime steer prices have advanced around $3.50 since the first of the year and choice steer carcasses have gone from $44.50 a hundred pounds to $48.00.

The major packers, food chains and stockyards brokers agree that the big reason for the advance is a continuing demand for the best grade meats.

Allen Johnson, director of marketing for the American Meat Institute, summed it up for most close observers of the scene:

Good Beef

"Higher prices are generally a sign of the times," he said. "People want good beef and it costs more money, but they are willing to pay for it."

There are other reasons, too, for the current price advance and the rise most persons close to the meat industry expect within a few weeks. Ford Ferguson, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade who has a grain farm and also raises cattle in Ogle County offered this comment:

"Most cattle are being sent to markets at lighter weights and there is a shortage of finished animals. The demand is strong and there apparently is no end in sight to higher prices."

Resistance Point

In the past, Ferguson said, cattlemen at the yards held that the $35 price per hundred pounds was a resistance point "but at the speed with which this price was reached last week I believe we probably will see cattle on the hoof reaching $37 50 one of these days."

Ferguson noted that snow in wide sections of the Midwest and Plains States this winter "generally stimulated earlier marketings of lighter weight cattle" and the "long priod of rain in the Far West played hell with feed lots out there."

Fewer Cattle

He noted that a recent government report showed that fewer cattle have been placed on feed in Iowa and Nebraska for delivery this summer. These two states are heavy contributors to the Chicago Stockyards and if ranchers and farmers in Iowa and Nebraska market fewer and lighter steers this spring and summer "there probably will be higher prices for all types of steers," Ferguson said.

"But this is the affluent society," he said, "and if the demand continues and receipts thin out, people still will continue to demand the best."

When will prices top out at the meat counter, Ferguson was asked.

"When the lady of the house decided she can do without that special cut, and she finds something that is just as pleasing to her palate and pocketbook, the demand will slow down and prices will fall back."

Church Plans 2 Concerts

Lakeland College Choir, Congregation To Perform at UCC

Two special concerts have been scheduled this week at First Congregational United Church of Christ.

On Wednesday Lakeland College's A Capella Choir will visit the church and give a concert at 8:30 p.m. A candlelight vesper concert has been scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Thursday with members of the congregation participating.

The choir program from Lakeland, which is affiliated with the UCC, has been endorsed by the UCC Cabinet as part of a Lenten program but will feature contemporary as well as spiritual music. Religious music deals with the three parts of the church year — Advent, Lent and Easter.

This is the final Lenten concert of the year for the choir, which has visited 23 UCC congregations throughout the Midwest from January.

Choir Director

It is under the direction of W. Henry Ellerbusch, who has been with the Lakeland faculty since 1940

The second program will feature members of the congregation. Dr. John Harris will be harpsichord soloist and also participate in a consort. Recorders will be Georgie Harris, Sharon Fauser, Jean Plummer and Jack Harris in the Renaissance program. David Murray will be on the tenor viola de gamba and Martha Lers, bass viola de gamba. Beth Hotchkiss will be harpsichordist. Participating will be the Congregational Bellringers, under the direction of Mrs LaVahn Maesch.

Contributions will be taken to assist the bellringers in their trip to Pennsylvania this June to participate in the national conclave of the English Handbell Ringers.

Kelsenberg Resigns

Works Director Quits in Menasha

MENASHA — The city's public works director of the past two years, Joseph M. Kelsenberg, turned in his resignation this morning, announcing he is returning to private engineering as a consultant.

The resignation is effective April 11. However, Kelsenberg said his last day in his office will be this Friday, since he plans to take the two weeks' vacation he has coming this year.

Kelsenberg said this morning he and a former associate are in the process of forming a private consulting business in Waukesha County. He was a consulting engineer earlier in his career, he said

Hired Feb. 7, 1967, Kelsenberg was employed as an engineer with the Milwaukee County Department of Public Works at the time.

Faced Critics

Although he has occasionally faced the heat of critical commentary from some officials, particularly certain aldermen, Kelsenberg said he was resigning with "no regrets or qualms with the City, Mayor John Klein, or common council."

Klein, upon receiving the resignation, promptly said he was "sorry to see him go".

Asked about his periodic conflicts with other officials, Kelsenberg commented today, "That's normal in city government."

He was hired to succeed Robert J Poss, whose tumultuous relationship with former Mayor Kenneth Holmes led to his resignation late in 1966

It took months to find a replacement for Poss, and qualified engineers remain in short supply, according to sources in the profession

Kelsenberg leaves the $11,600-per-year job as the city is preparing for its annual summer round of public works projects.

Major Work

A major part of this year's work is street and sidewalk construction and replacement that was put off from last year due to construction industry strikes coupled with delays in the common council and public works department.

Kelsenberg also has been working with the mayor on a northeast side drainage project, and one of the works director's final acts will be to travel to Chicago Friday with Klein for a conference with federal officials on the city's construction aid request.

It was too early for anyone to say what steps the city will have to take to keep up with the department's work schedule while seeking a successor to Kelsenberg. The last time the post was vacant, some major engineering work was farmed out to a private firm

Crowded Conditions

Jackson School Issue Slated for Discussion

Appleton public school administrators will respond tonight to a recent plea of the Jackson Elementary School PTA to take action on crowded Jackson facilities.

Administrative committees were named earlier this month after requests from Mrs. Daniel Crowley, of the Appleton League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Arch Hoffman, representing Jackson PTA, for equality in educational equipment and facilities.

Mrs. Hoffman specifically urged that Jackson's library be retained — not converted to classrooms—and the pupil pressure be reduced, eliminating the upper elementary grades in the school over a two-year period.

She also said the PTA questioned the safety of Jackson's wiring.

The administration committee reports at the regular board of education session will be on the wiring and on enrollment and physical facilities of the Jackson-Franklin schools attendance center

The board had urged putting an addition on Franklin a year ago to take pressure off Jackson, but this was dropped when the fiscal control board objected strongly.

Mrs. Crowley praised the board earlier this month for efforts to provide equal facilities, but urged even more careful study.

No Mediation Session Yet Scheduled in Supplier Strike

No mediation session has been scheduled so far between the striking Operating Engineers Union and officials of the Fox Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association, it was learned today.

Negotiators for Local 139 and the association met for the second time last week since July 29 when the strike started, and it was announced both sides agreed to mediation.

A check with the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) office at Madison this morning disclosed no meeting is scheduled for either this or next week.

Mediation Report

Representatives for both sides in the long dispute had reported recently that a mediation attempt would be slated for last Friday or early this week

In the meantime, the strike of Operating Engineers and Teamsters Local 563 against the seven-member ready mix and sand-gravel firm association entered its 32nd week today — the longest labor dispute in Fox Cities history.

A side development was a letter Robert Schlieve, chief negotiator for 563, sent to Donald Lee, WERC mediator, notifying him the Teamsters were "always ready and willing to meet at the bargaining table" with association negotiators.

Schlieve said he wrote the letter to counter reports the union refused to meet.

Appleton Native Dies in Florida Car Accident

An Appleton native died in an automobile crash near Pensacola, Fla., it has been learned.

Lloyd D. Burmeister, 43, son of Mr and Mrs. Roy Burmeister, 2109 N. Appleton St., Appleton, was buried last week. Burmeister, who graduated from Appleton High School in 1943, was the father of six.

Burmeister was employed as a base policeman at Whiting Field at Pensacola and had served 21 years in the U.S. Navy. His five brothers include Capt. Vilas Burmeister, who heads Appleton police department patrol division.

Kimberly Man, 25, Killed in Car Crash At Fullerton, Calif.

A 25-year-old Kimberly man was killed in a two-car crash in Fullerton, Calif., this weekend, his widow, Mariann, has been notified.

Raymond L. Maynard, 246 S. Sidney St., reportedly was riding in a car when a second auto pulled out into its path.

Notification came Saturday through the Outagamie County sheriff's office.

Maynard had been employed by American Can Co., Neenah.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Jansen Funeral Home at Kimberly.

Firemen Called After Short in Electric Cord

A short in a lamp cord brought Appleton fire fighters to the Robert Brown home, 712 N. Harriman St., about 10:20 p.m. Sunday. There was no fire.

Four units were sent to 1814 W. Summer St. at 2:40 p.m. Sunday on what turned out to be a false alarm.

Clothing Stolen From Parked Cars

Appleton police received two reports of clothing thefts from cars Sunday night and early today.

Gary Quigley, 1178 Home Ave., Menasha, told police at 8 50 p m Sunday that two sport coats, two pair of pants, two neckties, and a gym bag containing clothes and shoes were stolen from his unlocked car parked near a W. College Avenue tavern He valued the clothing at $120

James E Woelfel, route 1, Hilbert, told police early today that two sport coats, valued at $100, were taken from his unlocked car while it was parked in the 300 block of W College Avenue.

Make Way for Gimbels

Sophisticated-Type Razing Planned

The last leg of the proposed Gimbels Department Store site clearance project should make for a good show.

Two remaining structures — the city police station and Wisconsin Telephone Co vehicle storage building — are scheduled for a sophisticated-type razing.

There will be no lowering of the boom or swinging of the big steel ball at the structures, accoding to Hubert Berg of Berg and Henn, Inc., the Appleton firm with the site clearance contract.

Rather than knock the two concrete and brick constructed buildings on Washington Street down, plans call for ripping them open at the seams.

Hydraulic Jacks

"We've decided to use a number of huge hydraulic jacks on the police station building and virtually break it apart," Berg said today.

And with his statement, he laid to rest fears that striking the structure with a big ball attached to a crane would cause a vibration in the central business district, and that other buildings might be adversely affected.

"I'm afraid if we went in there and razed those bulidings via the usual procedure, the vibrations would be felt more than a block away," Berg commented. "This we don't want."

The jacks will be used to split heavy concrete beams supporting the structures, and once that is done, razing crews will push the buildings over.

The debris will then be hauled away and the complete site leveled prior to excavation work

Final construction plans for the multi-million dollar department store, which will take up about two-thirds of the 200 block of E. College Avenue, are to be completed this week

The time target for beginning construction is June 1

Berg said he couldn't definitely say when the last two buildings will be cleared from the site

The wrecking firm is presently waiting for the Wisconsin Telephone Co. to move out of the vehicle storage building. The police station, sold to the developer by the city, was abandoned March 14.

Early Start

"We would like to get at the job as soon as possible," Berg said.

Most of the area to be used for demolition and construction purposes will be boarded off to the public.

Last week the city council gave Berg & Henn permission to occupy streets with equipment for duration of the construction project

High Fence

In addition to taking usual protective measures, the wrecking and excavations firm will erect an eight-foot wooden fence along Morrison and Washington streets

The first order of construction business after the site is cleared will be to pour footings for the new department store which will have three levels, including a basement for retail purposes.

Provision will be made in the initial construction to add two more stores to the building should further expansion become necessary.

Nekimi Wet, Dry Factions Both Confident of Winning

For the third time since the end of Prohibition, Town of Nekimi voters will be asked at the April 1 election to ease the town's ban on sales of beer and liquor.

Town officials and some voters said there is little talk so far about the proposal to upset Nekimi tradition.

There are divergent opinions, however, as to why the issue isn't a hotter one this year. Some people say it's because the measure will indede, received voter endoresement. Others are equally sure there isn't discussion because the referendum has no chance of passing.

The referendum on the April ballot is a relatively modest request to allow town licensing of Class A beer sales. Class A sales are confined to package goods to be consumed away from the premises where it is sold.

Prime Mover

Town officials said the prime mover in the referendum petition was Ray Streblow, operator of Circle R Ranch, mobile home court off U.S. 41 on the Knapp Street Road.

"I think it will be approved this time," Assessor William Pollack said. "There is little talk about it because people feel it is going through. There was plenty of talk a few years ago when there was a referendum for Class A and Class B licensing."

Pollack said he thinks a "dry" town is obsolete today, but the Nekimi voters might still oppose taverns in the town.

Big Surprise?

"People don't seem to be much concerned," another prominent member of the community reported, "but if this goes over it will be a big surprise.

Only a failure of voters to turn out at the polls, she thought, would upset the status quo.

Many Nekimi people don't want any kind of beer or liquor licensing in the town, she continued, pointing out that there are taverns just over the town lines.

"I don't know if enough people have changed," Town Clerk Jones said, "but I do know some feel if would be wise to adopt both Class A and B licensing." He thinks the referendum for Class A licensing will be approved by the voters.

Chairman Lyle Raddatz said he, too, imagines it will pass although "I haven't heard a word about it."

'Who Gets License?'

He said he has no personal feeling against the referendum. An earlier attempt, some 15 years ago, he recalled, may have failed because some people wondered who would be granted licenses — and some thought they knew.

Side Supervisor Arthur Wuest thinks the referendum hasn't "too strong a chance" unless those in favor turn out in numbers at the polls. Nekimi has polled as few as 50 to 60 votes in some spring elections, he recalled. He figures the town could muster some 500 voters but 400 votes in the November election was counted a good turnout.

His fellow side supervisor, Robert Tigert, thinks the vote will be "nip and tuck."

A packaged goods license, he said, probably won't find much opposition, but "those who vote against it may think it's just a foot in the door and decide they'd better keep everything out."

"I never could understand the opposition here," Mrs. Herbert Barthels said. She serves as the town health officer, but a package beer license would make no difference in that work, she said. A tavern probably would.

Neighbors Scold

Nobody's talking about the referendum because it's just not that important anymore, according to Herbert Potratz. He said Nekimi people are individualists, however, and he would question the likelihood of referendum approval.

"We get scolded," he said, "by people who say the town is losing revenue, but the City of Oshkosh has something like 123 taverns, a lot of them going busted. I guess we're people with a big heart and don't want to run a few more poor bartenders out of business."

It's not that residents of the Welsh-settled community of Nekimi don't drink. They do, according to the people interviewed. So far, however, the town has remained dry, perhaps because it's a almost totally a farming community with little commercial development.

Hills, Valleys

Dr. Greorge Conner, pastor of the little Ring Presbyterian Church and an Oshkosh State University history faculty member, maintains that Nekimi offers the most beautiful scenery in the area. Nekimi's hills and valleys are a delight in a county which is largely flat in character, offering pleasant opportunity for residential development in the future, he said.

There are some townsmen who seem to want to keep Nekimi "unsullied" by taverns. To prevent that "foot in the door" from becoming a whole leg, they insist, will insure a bright future for residential development within the township.

Dr. Connor has heard on discussion of the referendum, he said, but added that there might be some campaigning in the week remaining before the election.

Full-Time Aldermen Advocated in Neenah

NEENAH — A Neenah alderman seeking re-election and two first-time candidates for other ward seats advocated full-time councilmen Sunday.

Paul Mueller, First Ward alderman, said, "With city problems gaining the complexity they are, part-time persons just do not have the time to research and analyze each one as thoroughly as they should."

Mueller's statement was echoed by Michael G. Ellis, who is opposing Ald. Peter Fara for the Third Ward seat. "Some thought should be given to a semi-full-time council."

Donald W. Steber, battling Incumbent Seventh Ward Ald. Donald Gomoll, explained, "There are smarter people than I who could run for this job, but they just don't have the time. If successful, I know it will require some changes in scheduling and will put some pressure on my family," he added.

Their comments came in answer to a question during the League of Women Voters' forum at Horace Mann Junior High School. They were asked if councilmen should be paid.

Unopposed Ninth Ward Ald. Joseph Kraus said, "With the length of time the job requies, it averages out to about 9 cents an hour. The small pay isn't much but I would not serve without pay," he said.

Mueller added, "It gives a man a feeling of resonsibility if he is being paid for the job."

Appearing on the same forum were candidates for school board including incumbents Mrs. Andrea Bletzinger, Frank X. Hochholzer and Dr. John Wilson and challenger, Stanley Drews.

Hochholzer, when it came his turn to speak, said, "After 19 years on the school board, it's in my blood. But I'd give up my job for a 'yes' vote on the referendum," referring to the April 1 vote on the $4.5 million second senior high school.

Candidates for the newly created second circuit court judgeship, Edmund Arpin and Gerald Engeldinger, both of Neenah, outlined their qualifications during the sesson, and later in Menasha at a similar LVW forum.

Klein to Go To Chicago For Grant

MENASHA — Attempts to win a $178,000 storm drainage grant from the federal government will take Mayor John Klein and Public Works Director Joseph Kelsenberg to Chicago Friday.

Recently returned from a trip to Minneapolis for similar purposes, Klein said this morning he and Kelsenberg have a 10:30 a.m. appointment with Edward Brudder, in charge of the aid category including the Menasha application, in the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The city has set aside a sum equal to the amount being sought from HUD, to finance a drainage system for the northeast side to improve the area for residential development.

The city was turned down last year on a similar request. Besides the Minneapolis and Chicago trips, Klein has spoken of going to Washington and has been in touch with Wisconsin congressional delegates.

Hawk Reacts to Extended Hand

SEATTLE (AP) — Agnes Flickinger of West Seattle went to get her mail and stretched out her hand to remove some letters, little knowing her action was what the Humane Society says is a signal to a trained hawk to land and be fed.

A bird, wearing leather thongs on each leg, landed and then sliced at Mrs. Flinkinger's arm when she attempted to fight it off.

Precautions Taken for New England Flooding

WALTHAM, Conn. (AP) — Army engineers began taking antiflood precautions over the weekend at several points in New England. An Army spokesman said heavy rain could cause quick trouble on the Connecticut and Merrimack rivers, in areas that received more than 40 inches of snow in February.

Work has begun clearing river beds, freeing ice jams and building temporary dikes and levees.

A Special Guest, the Rev. Larry Hill, second from right, United Presbyterian campus pastor, University of Chicago, was the keynote speaker at the 1969 Presbyterian Youth Rally over the weekend at Memorial Church. All of the questions facing youths today, such as drugs, war and racial tension, included under the theme, "Antidisestablishmentarianism," were tackled by the 250 youths from northeastern Wisconsin who attended. Cuban Theories Nixon Has Choice of 'Defeats' In Vietnam Conflict

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba's ambassador to the Viet Cong says "President Nixon will have to decide between a defeat of some proportions now, or a major defeat later," Radio Havana reported Sunday.

"In the beginning of the war, Americans were out looking for guerrillas and couldn't find them. Now the guerrillas are looking for Americans but can't find them because soldiers of many divisions are dead and buried somewhere in Vietnam," Ambassador Raul Valdes Vivo said, according to the broadcast monitored in Miami.

Cuba did not explain why Valdes Vivo returned to Havana after presenting his credentials to the Viet Cong three weeks ago. The jungle ceremony reported by Radio Havana made Valdes Vivo the first diplomat accredited to the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

MRA Receives 98 Letters On Redevelopment Plans

MENASHA — The flow of mail objecting, commenting or asking questions about the downtown redevelopment project has stopped, and Redevelopment Executive Robert Osheim faces the task of sorting and answering 98 letters.

Osheim doesn't have regular secretarial help in his office in the city administration building, so the job probably will be a one-man project, he said.

The letters were received in response to urgings by Osheim and the redevelopment authority (MRA) after the March 5 hearing on the proposed redevelopment plans.

In the 10-block downtown project area, there are a total of 260 parcels of property, held by a total of 285 owners, including public land and joint and multiple ownerships.

Legal Bases

The legal purpose of the letters is to give property owners a legal foundation for fighting condemnation of their property — if their holdings are needed for the project, and if private negotiations over sale of the property are fruitless.

However, Osheim said many of the letters come from persons other than property owners. Some, he added, came from persons living outside the boundaries of the project area. Legally, only owners of land in the project area have reason to file objections to condemnation.

"I think I should reply to them anyway," Osheim said of the others.

The letters also are to be considered when the MRA faces its most crucial decision — whether to adopt the plan and if so, with what changes.

Governments to Spend $300 Billion This Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal, state and local governmental spending will top the $300 billion mark in fiscal 1969. Tax Foundation, Inc., a nonpartisan research firm said Sunday.

An estimated figure of $310 billion for the period breaks down to $1,542 for every American, representing a 130 per cent increase over $135 billion spent in 1958, the foundation added.

6 Injured in Head-on Crash Near Appleton

Woman Suffers Skull Fracture, Others Escape With Cuts

Five young people from Calumet County and one from rural Fremont were injured in a head-on crash at U. S. 10 and Two Mile Road, four miles west of Appleton.

Drivers involved were DuWayne D. Klessig, 21, route 1, Hilbert, and Ronald A. Petit, 20, route 1, Fremont.

Most seriously injured was Jane Gordon, 22, 103 W. Chestnut St., Chilton, who suffered a skull fracture and possible rib fractures. She was taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital where she is listed in "fairly good condition" today.

Klessig suffered left elbow and hand cuts and Petit suffered cuts to both hands.

Three other passengers in the Klessig car were hurt. Lorrain Van Hoorn, 18, route 1, Chilton, suffered knee cuts; Alice Brenner, 18, route 3, Chilton, suffered a cut nose; and Kathy Moehn, 18, Stockbridge, had cuts to the nose and legs.

All of the injured except Miss Gordon were taken to Memorial Hospital by squad car.

Outagamie County police, who estimated damage at $3,500, said Petit was eastbound on 10 and swerved into the patch of the westbound Klessig car when an auto pulled onto U. S. 10 from Two Mile Road. The Calumet County youths were enroute to Stevens Point.

Conglomerate Goes Down

Overall Market Loses Ground In Slow Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to move lower early this afternoon. The trading pace slowed.

The Dow Jones industrial average, lower from the start, was off 2 48 points at 917.52 at noon.

Declines led advances by about 20 issues.

Brokers said investors were acting cautiously, following the news that the Justice Department said it would file suit to force Ling-Temco-Vought, a conglomerate, to dispose of its interest in Jones & Laughlin Steel.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 at 333.6, with industrials off 1.6, rails off .9, and utilities off .4.

Ling-Temco-Vought and Jones & Laughlin both were delayed in opening on the New York Stock Exchange. Later, Ling-Temco-Vought opened on 7,500 shares at 65, off 1¼, and Jones & Laughlin opened on 20,000 shares at 30⅞, off 3⅝. Ling-Temco-Vought later was off 3¼ at 63.

Other conglomerates generally were lower. Loew's Theatres dipped 2⅝ to 42. AMK Corp. lost 1¾, and White Consolidated Industries was off 1. Gulf & Western Industries and National General dipped fractions.

Other steels generally were higher, with Bethlehem and U.S. Steel making fractional gains.

Motors, aircrafts and electronics issues were mixed.

Pennzoil United $1.33 preferred, the most-active issue, was off 4½ at 61. Second most-active — Roan Selection Trust was up ⅞ at 13⅞. Atlantic Richfield and GAC Corp. each was up 1¼.

Two Schools, Homes Are Burglarized

Burglaries at two city schools and two homes were being investigated today by Appleton police.

About $300 was taken from a dollar bill changing machine at Appleton High School-East Sunday night or early today. The machine, owned by Karras Vending Service of Appleton, was in the cafeteria. Police said entry into the school was gained by forcing an east door. Nothing else was disturbed in the building.

An undetermined amount of money was missing from three vending machines that were entered at Einstein Junior High School.

Police, who were notified Sunday, said entry was gained by forcing an east door. Money was taken from a coin changer, a cold foods machine, and a dessert machine.

Home Burglaries

About $17 in cash, a $10 gift certificate, and a bank savings book were taken in a burglary Sunday afternoon at the Walter Schneider home, 1630 S. Driscoll St.

Police, who were notified at 10 p.m., said entry into the home was gained by forcing a rear door.

Nothing appeared to be missing following a burglary Saturday night or Sunday at the home of Mrs. Dexter Wolfe, 416 E. Pershing St. The burglary was discovered Sunday night when the family returned from Mexico. Entry was gained through a kitchen window. Police said small footprints were found inside the home.

Packet Discovered in Vacant House Thought To Contain Marijuana

A plastic bag of what police believe is marijuana was found in a house at 210 S. Rankin St. Sunday.

A man who was making repairs in the building notified police early Sunday afternoon that he found the small package of green, leafy material above the kitchen door.

Detectives said preliminary tests revealed the substance was marijuana, however it will be sent to the State Crime Laboratory for further examination.

The vacant house had been occupied by several young people who are awaiting trials on drug and narcotics charges.

Chowder and Marching Society

Byrnes' Salute to Nixon Wins Him 'Toastmaster of the Month' Title

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. John W. Byrnes "toastmaster of the month" of the nation's capital.

The title was acquired last week when the Green Bay legislator toasted President Nixon at a White House dinner attended by some of the most exclusive clansmen in the country — the Chowder and Marching Society.

The Chowder and Marching Society convention, which drew members from as far away as California for the two-day event probably gathered as many top GOP officials as possible under the same roof.

White House Dinner

Byrnes toasted the President at the first gathering when the Nixons greeted members and their wives at a White House dinner

On the second night of the convention, the President traced the founding of the society. He reported that it includes 20 congressmen, four senators, and five former congressmen, a Cabinet member (Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird of Marshfield) and a President.

Recalling that Chowder and Marching was founded in 1949 by a group of Republican congressmen who met every Wednesday to discuss legislation, Nixon reported that the society "is the most disorderly, badly organized organization I know. It has no charter, no bylaws and no president."

Nixon added that he had learned Wednesday night that "the society has no respect for any president."

The president then recalled what brought them together 20 years ago.

Seeking Peace Policies

"All of us were young. All of us were new members of Congress. We were concerned about the strength of the United States and we were concerned about how we could help secure peace. We have more power today than we had as new members of Congress," he continued, adding that seeking policies to bring lasting peace was what brought the group together again in Washington.

Members of the society wore chef's hats and aprons as their club insignia at the reception Thursday, but the President made Laird remove his.

"The secretary of defese has enough trouble without having to wear a silly hat," commented Nixon. "So do I."

Guests of Byrnes at the reception were John Coferin and John Whitney, both of Green Bay, and John Good of De Pere.

Auxiliary Luncheon

On Friday, the local "Ladies Auxiliary" of Marching and Chowder Society gave a luncheon at the Congressional Country Club in suburban Maryland for wives of th emembers of the society who are not now living in the Washington area.

In addition to Byrnes and Laird, Wisconsin members of Chowder and Marching Society include Rep. Glenn R. Davis of Waukesha.

Hope for Heavy Vote

Poll Workers Go to School to Prepare for General Election

Appleton's 105 city election workers will go back to school tonight.

City Clerk Eldon Broehm announced he will be conducting a pre-election instruction class at Wilson Junior High School at 7:30 p.m.

"We want to get everything ready for next week so their are no problems," Broehm said, referring to the April 1 general election.

Appleton residents will be going to the polls to elect 11 aldermen and three school board members, along with balloting on state races and referendum questions.

Broehm said the March 4 turnout for the primary, representing about 17 per cent of the city's registered voters, was disappointing and had hopes things would improve next week.

The city has 23-563 registered voters.

Expense Reports

In addition to discussing the election workers school, Broehm reminded candidates that 5 p m. Tuesday is the deadline for filing pre-election campaign expense statements with the office.

On a related subject, he said absentee ballots are now available but reminded written requests for same must be received at his office by 5 p.m. Friday, March 28.

Persons making personal (in person) applications face a Monday, March 31 deadline.

Special Hours

There will be special votings hour for residents wishing to cast absentee ballots in the clerk's office at the city hall Broehm said the time would be Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

For persons who have not registered to vote during the normal open registration period now expired, Broehm advised they could still register.

He explained any such person would have to be accompanied by two property owners in the ward where he or she resides to certify the applicant for registration resides in the ward and meets requirements for voting.

More than 300 ballots have been sent to servicemen stationed in the U S. and abroad, the figure about the same as previous years, Broehm reported.

Australian Learns Of Explosion While Visiting in Appleton

The managing director of the Australian firm which was loading supplies aboard the American geophysical ship Western Spruce when it caught fire Saturday learned of the tragedy in Appleton over the weekend. He is James Davidson, of Commonwealth Industrial Gases, Ltd., of Sydney, Australia.

Davidson said that his company was loading liquid oxygen aboard the ship at the time of the fire and xeplosions. Two of the three men killed were employes of his company, he said. The tragedy took place in Port Welshpool, a port 10 miles southeast of Melbourne.

Davidson is spending several days at the Miller Electric Company in Appleton. CIG distributes Miller Electric products in Australia.

NLRB Trial Tuesday for Teamsters

Teamsters Local 563 of Appleton will answer to secondary picketing charges at Oshkosh Tuesday in a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) trial.

Charges were originally filed by Oshkosh Ready-Mix Co. last fall when the striking Teamsters picketed a jobsite on Highway 47.

It was reported the firm sought to withdraw the charge but the NLRB indicated there was evidence enough to warrant a complaint against the union

Notice was served and the trial is scheduled to begin tomorrow at 10 a.m.

There have been several NLRB hearings and trials in the Fox Valley over a period of several months stemming from strikes and disputes dealing with the ready-mix industry.

Physicians' Creed of 'Do No Harm' Could Block Cancer Study

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The physician's creed of "do no harm" may be blocking important medical advances, says a prominent cancer researcher.

He urged that society, not individual scientists, be made financially responsible when "something goes wrong" in human experiments.

The statements were made by Dr. Chester M Southam, retiring president of the American Association for Cancer Research, after the group's annual meeting Sunday

Research Institute

Southam, associate professor of medicine at Cornell University and member of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, said, "We all want to do good," but there are times when you may not be doing good by doing nothing."

"If the investigator is bound by the 'do no harm' concept, he can never try anything new," said Southam, who is both a physician and a scientific investigator.

"The patient expects his doctor to use his best judgment whether to try a new drug or to keep on giving aspirin. The volunteer subject in an experiment transfers the same role to the clinical investigator—he expects him to use his best judgment."

Volunteers have died, "notably in yellow fever and small pox research," he said.

Sole Liability

"Why should the investigator have the sole financial liability if something goes wrong? This is a responsibility of society as a whole since what the investigator is doing is for the benefit of society. He is only performing a duty society has imposed on him. Neither he nor his sponsoring institution should be held liable."

Southam said there should be some way of compensating volunteer subjects and their families through government funding or by private insuance.

"The question of fault should not arise when the investigator can show he used his best judgment," he said.

Ottawa undecided about the ABM situation, was urged earlier in the week by some members of Parliament to try to persuade Nixon from positioning missile defense sites near the Canadian border.

While refusing to do so, Trudeau said, however that "we do not have all the information" on the ABM system to convince him such defenses are necessary

Trudeau was also quizzed on whether the ABM's would not violate Canadian airspace and to what degree Ottawa had been consulted on the system.

Some questions suggested the decision by the United States to go ahead with the program would heat up the East-West arms race.

The prime minister answered that he will discuss these matters with Nixon and, "If we are convinced the ABM system is necessary though regrettable, we shall have to decide whether or not we shall participate in the operation of that system."

Closely related to the ABM question is the matter of continued Canadian military participation in NATO and the North American Air Defense—NORAD—agreement.

sentenced to 20 years on spy conspiracy charges.

The government had said that it would abandon several security cases rather than open its files.

At the same time, the justices returned more than a dozen appeals to lower federal courts to determine if the defendants were victims of illegal eavesdropping

These included the conviction of Muhammad Ali, the deposed heavyweight boxing champion, on draft charges and of James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, on both jury tampering and mail fraud charges.

The court cautioned that all that the defendants are entitled to at this stage is a hearing to determine if the government's electronic surveillance was unlawful

If the government acted legally, the court said, there would be no disclosure to the defendant of material in government files and further proceedings would be unnecessary.

A Group of Antiwar demonstrators from the Baltimore area, including four men who identified themselves as Roman Catholic priests, entered the Washington office of the Dow Chemical Co. Saturday and hurled office records out a fourth floor window. The bottom photo shows two of the group gathering papers and files inside the office. At top, the papers fly through the broken window. New Concepts to Emerge?

Transition of Religion

ROME (AP) — Institutional religion is on the way out, a German expert on the sociology of religion told a symposium on atheism sponsored by the Vatican and the University of California at Berkeley.

"I suggest we live in a period of transition in which a particular social form of religion, institutional specialization, is on the wane," Prof. Thomas Luckmann of the University of Frankfurt said today.

This doesn't mean all the churches are going to be boarded up. Such institutions, Luckmann said, still will have some use if they can help individuals to articulate their subjective beliefs.

One characteristic of the period of transition is that "'belief' in the traditional sense in which sociologists use the term is undergoing a radical transformation," Luckmann said. "'Unbelief,' on the other hand, is about to disappear entirely as a social fact."

Sacred Cosmos

Luckmann said that everyone has beliefs attached in some way to what he terms "the sacred cosmos" and that as institutional religion dissolves, the categories of "believer" and "nonbeliever" will merge.

Two types of religion will result, Luckmann continued:

1. One individual will construct his own private system of ultimate values that will not fit into an already established church.

2. Another individual, after a phase of doubt, will arrive at a system of ultimate values that can be expressed through an existing church.

Luckmann, who took a doctorate in sociology at the New School for Social Research in New York City, spoke to theologians and sociologists attending the five-day meeting on "The Culture of the Unbelief."

The meeting is sponsored by the Vatican Secretariat for Non-Believers and the Berkeley University. It is the first symposium in which the Vatican has cooperated with a secular university.

About 4,000 persons attended the opening session at Gregorian University Saturday to hear Prof. Harvey Cox, a Baptist from the Harvard University Divinity School, and the Rev. Jean Danielou, a Jesuit and one of French theology's leading traditionalists.

Cox said atheism no longer has any meaning as a word.

"We are now in the time where many people are turning to astrological beliefs . . . forms of drugs, and even certain types of sexual behavior to seeking something that is real. We should define atheism as a search for the transcendent."

Father Danielou agreed in part with Cox and cited his experiences with hippies in San Francisco.

"I felt a lot of sympathy for the hippies because there is certainly a lot of feeling against secularization in our days," he said." They also are seeking something" trandscendent in their atheistic way."

'Funeral' Held by Anguillans For Their Caribbean Island

ANGUILLA (AP) — About 400 Anguillans held a "funeral" Sunday for their Caribbean island, now firmly under the British thumb after 13 months of unrecognized independence.

About 400 demonstrators, mostly women, marched under a broiling sun behind a black coffin that bore the legend: "If Lee don't go, Anguilla is dead." Anthony Lee is the British commissioner appointed to rule Anguilla until the island's fate is decided.

Officials made no effort to interfere with the procession, and there was no violence. It was the third demonstration in three days protesting British occupation of the island.

Reassert Authority

Anguilla, with a population of 6,000, seceded from a three-island federation with St. Kitts and Nevis 13 months ago. Last Wednesday a few hundred paratroopers, marines and Bobbies invaded the island to reassert British authority.

Two factions have emerged on Anguilla — a pro - independence group headed by Ronald Webster, elected acting president of the island last month, and an anti-independence faction led by Peter Adams, the island's leading political figure before Webster came to power.

Adams said Sunday the election in February was "rigged through fear" and the islanders were forced to vote "the way Ronald Webster wanted us to." Adams claimed most Anguillans welcomed the British and were ready to accept any reasonable British position to revolve the dispute.

Webster currently is in New York, to lobby at the United Nations against the British.

The anti-independence faction also has accused two Americans of collaborating behind the scenes with Webster. One is the Rev. Freeman Goodge of Winter Haven, Fla., pastor of the Anguilla Baptist Church, and the other is Lewis Haskins, an electronics plant owner originally from Worcester, Mass.

The Rev. Mr. Goodge said Sunday he is willing to leave the island to demonstrate he has no stake in its political intrigues. He said he would leave for Puerto Rico today "if I'm able to raise the money."

Promise to Withdraw

Although the British have promised to withdraw their paratroopers and marines this week and replace them with engineers, the invasion of Anguilla threatens to have repercussions in Britain's other Caribbean territories.

Labor leader George Walter on the neighboring island of Antigua, where the invasion force embarked, has protested the presence of British troops on his island and says he will make an issue of the Anguilla occupation in Antigua's next elections.

The government of Antiguan Prime Minister Vere Bird is legally bound to call elections by October 1970. Walter said he is considering running.

"The Anguilla episode must force any West Indian whose island is enjoying association to think again," said Walter.

Some Millionaires Pay No Income Tax

on it. Depreciation will bail you out.

While allowable amounts in succeeding years will be smaller, one accelerated method of figuring depreciation would permit you to claim your $15 million investment depreciated $750,000 the first year.

You get to deduct depreciation from income, even though no actual cash expenditure occurred. So the $500,000 you netted from operating the building becomes instead a paper loss of $250,000 and this cancels out that $250,000 salary. Result: no taxes instead of $110,000.

What makes it even more attractive is that the amount of cash that has passed through your hands — money you could put into other short-run projects —is $750,000. That's more than triple the cash you had to play with back before you became an apartment owner on borrowed capital.

Then there is the oil depletion allowance.

Suppose your wells are producing a before-taxes income of $1 million a year. It costs $450,000 to run the operation—deductible expense—so your net is $550,000.

But the depletion allowance, one of the most controversial tax breaks in the books, permits you to deduct 27½ per cent of the gross income from the wells. So off comes $275,000.

You still have another $275,000 in income. You can make it disappear this way:

You could spend $375,000 developing some other oil properties. This is deductible expense, so your black ink $275,000 becomes a red ink $100,000.

You are now theoretically $100,000 in the hole. Surprisingly enough, this is a position many of the superrich aim for, because paper losses are just the thing to shelter other income.

In your case, the $100,000 loss would enable you to have $100,000 in other income—stock market dabbler is that stance—and keep it all.

The net result of your year as a combination oilman and stock market babbler is that you have paid no tax, and you come away with at least $275,000 clear. And though $1.1 million has passed through your hands, you have had, in the eyes of the law, no taxable income.

Infatuation Hits Cissy on Family Affair

BY TV SCOUT

8:30-9 Channel 2 — Eddie Hodges, who is well remembered as the lisping little redhead of "The Music Man," guests on Family Affair as a singing idol who steals Cissy's heart. When he leaves and seemingly forgets her, Uncle Bill has to teach his teen-ager the difference between infatuation and real love.

6:30-7 Channel 5 — There is as much, or more, frenzy on I Dream of Jeannie, than any episode of the season. Roger and Tony are part of a three-man space crew, headed for a lunar orbit. All this means little to Jeannie, who is worried about Tony's cold, so she blinks him back to earth. Only her blink is misdirected and a different astronaut appears.

6:30-7:30 Channel 2 — Steve Ihnat landed the not-too-attractive job of portraying one of filmdom's most overdone western characters on Gunsmoke. He is the man relentlessly tracking down the killers of his pregnant wife.

6:30-7:30 Channel 11 — The site of tonight's Avengers is the archeological dig in "merrie olde" England. The diggers are expecting to pull ancient artifacts from the excavation, but their reward is something far more modern. They find little self-propelling machines which look like toys but play a deadly game.

7-8 Channel 5 — Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In does a job on Congressman Adam Clayton Powell and pulls no punches. A Congressman, returning from an extended stay in the Caribbean, arrives with two assistants — Candy Farr (Judy Carne) and Boom Boom La Tour (Chelsea Brown). Guest star Tony Curtis plays the politician who expounds on his world wide travels in search of poverty pockets, like the Riviera.

8-9 Channel 11 — Old prejudices, superstitions and passions rise to the surface as The Outcasts battle each other tonight. They are forced to take refuge in an old Indian cave which is also a burial ground. Jemal is frightened by what he believes is a curse on anyone "defiling" such a place. His fears grow when Corey disdains such thoughts and then explode when his partner uses some ancient relics to start a fire.

9-10 Channel 2 — Larry Hovis (Hogan's Heroes) and Barrie Chase are the stars of The Carol Burnett Show. In the feature number, the two guests, with Carol, Harvey Korman, Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner, spoof show business family acts to the tune of "What Now, My Love." The funniest segment has Carol and Korman as a dissipated couple singing "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You," to each other.

Singer Robert Goulet hasn't bowed to the current vogue of beards, but he had to grow the facial adornment for the role he's playing in the forthcoming movie "Underground." He just opened a singing engagement, complete with beard until the movie is all made, at the Empire Room in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City. (AP Wirephoto)

TV MOVIES

3:30 Channel 5 — Hudson's Bay (1940) Gene Tierney. Banished Englishman and two French fur trappers show England the wealth in fur at Hudson's Bay, eventually forming a famous company.

7:30 Channel 34 — Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid (1948) Ann Blyth, William Powell. Fantasy about a middle aged man who finds an amorous mermaid.

8:00 Channel 5 — Tonight We Sing (1958) Anne Bancroft. Sol Hurok, the Russian boy who becomes a success in America as manager of opera and concert stars. (C)

10:30 Channel 7 — Cattle Empire (1958) Joel McCrea, Gloria Talbott, Don Haggerty. The western folk are down on the cattle baron, drive him to prison and won't forgive him when he returns. Later they need him.

11:30 Channel 2 — Mr. Scoutmaster (1953) Clifton Webb, Edmund Gwenn. A childless TV writer becomes a scoutmaster to get the juvenile touch for a breakfast-food kiddy show he writes.

Modern Dance Troupe To Hold Workshops at UW Fox Valley Campus

Glen Tetley and Company to End 3-Day Visit With Public Performance April 2

The Glen Tetley Dance Company, internationally famed modern dance troupe, will spend three days at the Fox Valley Campus, UWGB, next week

Glen Tetley

The visit will culminate with a performance in the Campus Fine Arts Theater Wednesday night, April 2. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Open to Public

Open of the public, area dancers and dance-enthusiasts are invited and encouraged to attend. Admission will be charged for the public performance only.

At 11 a.m. Monday, March 31, Tetley and one of his dancers, Erin Martin, will give a lecture-demonstration entitled "Movement in Acting." This will be geared for students of drama — emphasizing how to move on and about the stage. In the afternoon at 1 p m, Tetley will discuss modern dance, touching on its history and stimulating a two-way exchange with the audience.

At 7 p m. Monday, Tetley will hold a master class in the Fine Arts Theater. This class is primarily for advanced dancers, although the less-advanced are welcome to attend and observe. Those wishing to participate should wear dance costume with ballet slippers. Bare feet are acceptable.

The program at 4 p m Tuesday, April 1, will be a lecture-demonstration for local high school students who take modern dance in school or who are interested in it as an art form. A similar lecture-demonstration for the general public will be held at 8:15 p.m. that evening in the campus.

On Wednesday, April 2, the company will hold an open rehearsal at 4 p m in preparation for the evening performance. The public is invited to attend, but Tetley asks that those who do attend remain seated throughout, as the dancers must concentrate intensely with no distractions from elsewhere in the theater.

The dancers performance tickets are on sale at Conkeys in Appleton, and the Camera and Card Shop in Neenah. Tickets also will be available at the door and phone reservations will be honored.

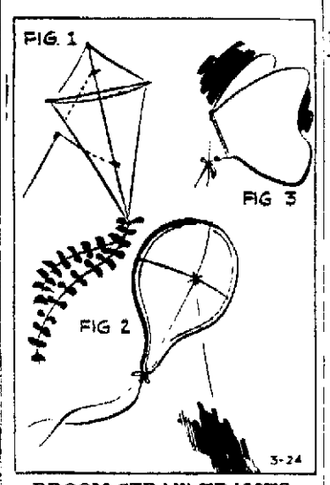
Broom Straw Kites Can be Enjoyable to Create and Fly

BY CAPPY DICK

Miniature kites with broom straw frames are fun to make. They can be flown on days when a strong wind is blowing.

The little kites are made exactly as big kites are made. Standard types, such as that in figure 1, or fancy ones like those in figures 2 and 3 can be made. Instead of broom straws, soda straws may be used, if you prefer. The kites are covered with tissue paper.



BROOM STRAW FRAMES

To make the kite shown in figure 1, use two straws. The upright straw should be five inches long and the horizontal straw should be four inches long. Cross them at a point about an inch and a half below the top of the vertical straw and tie them there with half a dozen turns of stout thread.

The next step is to run a thread around the frame of the kite, attaching it securely to the ends of the sticks. The easiest way to do this is to tie the thread on each stick with a slip knot and then place a drop of glue on it.

Attach the tissue paper cover with paste. The kite bridle consists of two strings which cross each other as do the broom straws. The kite string is tied to the bridle with a knot that will allow it to slip freely left, right, up and down. The tail of the kite is a length of white yarn with pieces of colored paper tied to it.

The snow shoe kite in figure 2 requires a thin strip of bamboo for a frame. Tie the two ends together with thread, then cover the frame with tissue paper.

2 Wins Boost Bucks' Final Log to 27-55

Phoenix, San Diego Milwaukee Victims As Season Closes

PHEONIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, producing the fourth-quarter surge that had often eluded them throughout their initial National Basketball Association season, ended the 1968-69 campaign on a victory note Sunday night.

Coach Larry Costello had said several times that his expansion team too often seemed unable to maintain a winning drive, especially in the final periods.

But that necessary momentum was evident Sunday as Milwaukee took a 128-118 decision over the Phoenix Suns after squandering a 12-point lead and falling behind by up to eight points.

Milwaukee ends its season with 27 victories against 55 losses, and in last place in the Eastern Division, 30 games behind leader Baltimore. The Suns, the other NBA expansion club, are 16-66.

The 27-victory sum for Milwaukee is the best for an NBA expansion franchise except for the Chicago Bulls' 33-victory mark two years ago.

Best Win Shein

The Bucks also set an NBA mark during the season with six consecutive victories, the best string for an expansion team.

It was the last game for veteran center Wayne Embry, who is retiring after 11 seasons in pro basketball. He scored six points.

Milwaukee's high-point man was Flynn Robinson with 33.

Embry predicted Milwaukee will be a title team eventually, and said he hopes 'the Bucks sign Lew Alcindor and go away with it all."

Break Deadlock

Robinson and Guy Rodgers helped Milwaukee pull away from a 103-103 tie to a 10-point lead with 5:41 left to play. During the surge, to which Embry also contributed, the Bucks outscored Phoenix 16-6.

Milwaukee hit 47 per cent of its shots from the field to the Suns' 41 per cent, and controlled rebounds 68-54.

Neenah, Kimberly Cagers Receive Huge Welcomes

Fox Cities Prestige Gets Big Boost

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

There are championship, and there are championship games . . . But Saturday night's Beloit vs. Neenah confrontation for the WIAA state high school title was a classic that likely will never be forgotten by the 12,923 persons who were present in the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse and the hundreds of thousands of others who viewed it via television.

When John Roberts, WIAA executive director, characterized the double-overtime game as "one of the greatest in state tournament history," it was in the nature of an understatement. The game had everything imaginable in the way of thrills, suspense and skillful play — plus a key shot that was so incredible even a Hollywood script writer wouldn't dare include it in any hardcourt story he might write.

The "shot heard around the state" was the desperation heave, near mid-court, by Beloit's Lamont Weaver in the final two seconds of regulation time. When the ball slid down the glass board and through the hoop, it kept Beloit's unbeaten string and title hopes alive. The shot's distance was measured out at 41 feet . . . some claimed it had to be longer than that. But whatever the true distance, the shot came from "unmakable distance."

What Are Odds?

What are the odds against such a shot — 100 to 1 . . . 1,000 to 1 . . . 100,000 to 1? You're getting warmer.

Only such a miraculous happening kept Neenah from the throne-room. While there were still six minutes of whirlwind overtime action left, Weaver's big play gave the momentum to Beloit. The Rockets, of course, weren't ready to concede a thing and even though they lost two regulars on fouls — to one for Beloit — they matched the Knights point for point until they were down to a final desperation shot of their own — with four seconds of the second overtime left.

It was the kind of game, however, in which the loser made as many friends as the winner. "It's too bad," as several persons remarked, "that there couldn't be a co-championship this year."

Neenah and Kimberly delivered big blows for Fox Cities basketball prestige, placing second and third respectively among the 425 public high schools in the state. Both gave No. 1 ranked Beloit all it could handle.

Kimberly led the Panthers for most of the initial three periods in the semi-finals game. But an accumulation of fouls and several missed lay-ups late in the third period opened the way for a big Beloit rally in the final period.

The Rockets' runnerup finish is the Fox Cities' highest in WIAA competition since Appleton placed second 13 years ago.

Several thousand Kimberly partisans gave their heroes a big welcome Sunday, just as Rocket fans did. The Papermakers got a fire-truck ride and were formally feted by a huge crowd in the high school gym. Coach Jack Wippich, who directed the Papermakers to the best record (25-1) in school history, received a thunderous ovation during the program.

Ron Einerson, who took over a new team this season — one without a returning regular — also turned in a superb coaching job. Despite winning a co-FRVC title, the Rockets went into the state meet unheralded. After beating Wausau and Nicolet, the Rockets played Beloit head-to-head, never giving an inch. The spectacular duel was tied 12 times and the lead changed hands 14 times.

Rocket Quint Lauded After Historic Duel

NEENAH — A crowd estimated at close to 5,000 persons greeted the state runnerup Neenah High School basketball team when it returned from Madison and the state tournament Sunday afternoon.

The Rockets, who dropped a heart-throbbing 80-79 double overtime decision to undefeated Beloit in the championship game Saturday night, were given a police escort into the city and were welcomed by several thousand at the Fox Point Shopping Center.

There they mounted a fire truck and were driven to the high school where nearly 5,000 persons attended a homecoming program in the Ole Jorgensen gym.

Speakers included Mayors Donald Hassler, Neenah, and John Klein, Menasha; Coach Ron Einerson; Jorgensen, principal Alvin Long; Superintendent of schools, Dr. Donald Scott; Donald Shepard president of the board of education; Bob Hanley, representing the fans; and Craig Freund, president of the student council.

Einerson, who was accorded a standing ovation, opened by stating that it was going to be difficult to say much and closed by adding he appreciated the support the team had been given and "he would like to smile and be happy but it still hurt."

Cites Teamwork

The first-year coach said he didn't want to cite any individuals because the story of the season had been teamwork.

Jorgensen, who is retiring in June after 43 years as a teacher here and the first 39 as basketball coach, said he had been through a lot of state tournaments but never one like this. He added that he never has been in contact with a nicer bunch of boys, who had the benefit of the greatest job of coaching, he has ever seen.

The other speakers congratulated the boys for their courage, good sportsmanship, poise and brilliant play.

Kimberly's Wildenberg And 2 Beloit Stars On All-Tourney Team

3 Rockets, Hagany Among Selections For Second Team

MADISON (AP) — Bruce Brown, Beloit's top scorer in Saturday's state championship high school basketball game, shared top honors in The Associated Press all-tournament team chosen by sports writers and sportscasters.

Brown, who contributed 26 points toward the title victory over Neenah, and Glendale's Steve Bazelon were uanimous choices in the voting, each getting 29 votes.

Others among the top five were Beloit's Lamont Weaver with 28 points, Milwaukee Lincoln's Ellis Turrentine with 27 and Kimberly's Jeff Wildenberg with 24.

The next five were Neenah's Tom Kopitzke with 21, teammate Pat Hawley with 13, Kimberly's Don Hagany with 9, Durand's Ken Harmon with 9 and Neenah's Tom Koepke with 8.

Brown topped all tournament scorers with 82 points while Bazelon finished with 78 and Turrentine 75.

Tom McGraw Undergoes Knee Surgery

McCraw was injured Friday in an exhibition game against Boston when Red Sox first baseman George Scott fell on the White Sox first baseman.

He will be out of action for 10 to 12 weeks.

Crowd of 1,000 Greets UCLA '5' At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cheers of nearly 1,000 UCLA supporters greeted the Bruin basketball team Sunday as it arrived from Louisville with its third straight national collegiate title.

Lew Alcindor, who spearheaded all three Bruins teams to NCAA victories, wasn't on the plane. He took a flight home to New York after Saturday's final game—a 92-72 rout of Purdue for the title.

Coach John Wooden, after winning his fifth national title in six years, said he felt next year's team would play a different brand of ball but would be very strong, even without the 7-foot-1½ Alcindor.

Johnson Raps 2 Homers as Phils Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Deron Johnson, who traveled downhill for the last three National League seasons, appears to be settling back into his old long-ball groove with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Johnson, who drove in 130 runs for Cincinnati in 1965 but delivered only 33 for Atlanta last year, continued to sparkle for Philadelphia in exhibition play Sunday, slamming a pair of two-run homers and a run-scoring double in a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 29-year-old slugger, sold outright to the Phillies after batting .208, with eight home runs, for the Braves in 1968, has connected for three homers in the last three days. He homered against Detroit Friday and unloaded Sunday off the Dodgers' Claude Osteen in the fourth inning and John Purdin in the eighth.

3 Scoreless Innings

Jerry Koosman, the New York Mets' sore-shoulder southpaw ace, hurled three scoreless innings in a 7-3 victory over Boston, but Red Sox right-hander Jim Lonborg worked only two full innings before his pitching shoulder tightened up.

Lonborg, who finished at 6-10 for the Red Sox last season after undergoing knee surgery following a winter skiing mishap, suffered a "slight strain at the base of the right shoulder blade," according to Boston trainer Buddy Leroux.

Detroit edged St. Louis 7-6, Dave Campbell scoring the winning run in the ninth on an obstruction play. The Tiger base runner, caught in a rundown between third and home, was waved in when Cards catcher Jim Hutto interfered with him.

Washington spotted Houston a 6-0 lead, then struck for four runs in the seventh inning and six more in the eighth to down the Astros 10-6. Gary Holman drove in three Washington runs with a homer and single, keying the comeback. Frank Howard, who picked up his first hit of the spring, and Del Unser, delivered two more apiece.

Leaping Catch

Second baseman Marty Martinez made a leaping catch of Graig Nettles' bases-loaded liner and turned it into a game-ending double play as Pittsburgh nipped Minnesota 5-4 with the help of Bob Robertson's three-run homer.

Sal Bando, Danny Cater and Dick Green tagged left-hander Mike Paul for homers, powering Oakland to a 7-4 victory over Cleveland. The Indians' "B" team bowed to San Diego 17-10 in a 36-hit slugfest despite six Cleveland homers, two of them by Zoilo Versalles.

The Chicago White Sox capitalized on two errors by shortstop Jackie Hernandez for four unearned runs in the eighth and a 4-2 verdict over Kansas City. Dave May's two-run single in a three-run seventh swept Baltimore past Atlanta 4-3.

2-Run Homer

Lee May slammed a two-run homer and Alex Johnson and Johnny Bench each hit one with the bases empty, pacing Cincin-

Mayasich Bright Spot For U.S. Hockey Team

By GEOFFREY MILLER

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Player-Coach John Mayasich of the U.S. amateur Hockey team is sparkling in the World Championships here despite the poor showing of his hastily-assembled squad.

With six of their 10 games behind them, the Americans have only a string of defeats to show for their gritty fighting spirit. But the stature of Mayasich, playing in his first world championship, has grown steadily.

He surprised the Russians Saturday when he moved into the forward line and scored two goals. The Russians, the defending champions, won 8-4 but had to fight all the way.

"We get better and better with each game," Mayasich said, "We feel that if we go on fighting and improving we can beat any team left on our schedule."

Meet Fins

Next Sunday's game against Finland is the decisive one. If the Americans lose, they're out of the world championships in Canada next year. Finland edged the United States 4-3 in their first meeting and has two points while the Americans have none.

Mayasich, the 35-year-old general manager of Wisconsin's Green Bay Bobcats, had planned to direct his team from the bench and play only occasionally. But because of injuries, he has played fulltime in the last three games.

When Bob Paradise sprained his wrist, Mayasich went in at defense, Saturday he played center because key forward Billy Reichert was bothered by a leg muscle.

Tiring

Those periods are getting longer and longer," said Mayasich, who first played for the United States in the 1956 Olympics.

With Mayasich playing between wingers Gary Gambucci and Larry Stordahl of the Rochester Mustangs, the U.S. attack looked better organized than in any previous game.

Russia, Sweden and Czechoslovakia are neck and neck for the world title with six points each in six games.

Milwaukeean Tops 'State' All-Events

Allison Wins in Southeastern 500

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — Dodge driver Bobby Allison picked up the $5,000 victor's check in the Southeastern 500 stock car race Sunday.

Lee Roy Yarbrough, in a 1969 Ford, came on to take second place and $3,000. Pearson was third and won $2,400.

Ford's Cale Yarborough and Donnie Allison, brother of winner Bobby, were fourth and fifth, respectively.

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's wait till next year for the Minnesota North Stars and wait till next week for the Boston Bruins as the National Hockey League's regular season draws to a close.

The North Stars were eliminated from any chance at West Division Stanley Cup playoff berth Sunday when they lost to Pittsburgh 5-0. While Philadelphia was nailing down a spot by beating St. Louis 4-3.

Boston's chances for finishing first in the East Dvision were jolted by the New York Rangers, who beat the Bruins 4-2. The loss left second-place Boston four points back of Montreal with each team having three games to play and the Bruins are beginning to think more in terms of the playoffs, which begin a week from Wednesday.

In Sunday's other games, Chicago tagged Toronto 4-1 and Oakland edged Los Angeles 5-4.

Two Goals Each

Keith McCreary and Ken Schinkel sunk Minnesota with two goals apiece and Pittsburgh's rookie goalie, Joe Daley, recorded the shutout with 32 saves.

The loss left the North Stars seven points back of fourth place Los Angeles with only three games—a maximum of six points—left to play. Minnesota finished fourth and reached the division finals last year.

Philadelphia bunched three goals in less than five minutes to beat St. Louis and clinch a playoff berth. Jim Johnson had a goal and two assists for the Flyers. St. Louis has won only one of seven games since clinching the West Division championship.

Defenseman Jim Neilson scored two goals and assisted on a third, leading the Rangers past Boston. The victory extended New York's home ice unbeaten string to 17 games—one shy of the club record. The Rangers last lost at home on Jan. 2.

50th Career Point

Vic Hadfield and Rod Seiling scored the other New York goals and oDnnie Marshall, celebrating his 37th birthday, picked up his 500th career NHL point. Derek Sanderson and Ken Hodge scored for the Bruins.

The Rangers' victory combined with Toronto's loss at Chicago gave the New York a five-point bulge in the battle for third place. Ken Wharram led the Black Hawks past the Maple Leafs with a pair of goals. Jim Pappin and Stan Mikita had the other Chicago goals while Jim Dorey hit for Toronto.

Rookie Norm Ferguson scored two goals, running his total for the season to 33, as Oakland clinched second place in the West by beating Los Angeles. Ferguson's game-winner came with less than three minutes to play.

Ray Floyd Tips Dickinson in Sudden Death

Becomes 12th Different Champ In 12 Tourneys

JACKSONVILLE, Fla (AP) — Golf's gold-prospecting gypsies moved today toward the $200,000 National Airlines Open at Miami—but most of them had their minds on another kind of green

They are thinking about the traditional green coat of the Masters champion

I finished fifth last year at Augusta and I hope I can do better this time," said 210-pound Ray Floyd, after beating Gardner Dickinson in a sudden death playoff for $20,000 first prize Sunday in the $100,000 Jacksonville Open.

The tournament followed the season's patter of a different champion every week There now have been 12 tour tournaments and 12 different winners

The word is that golf never again will be dominated by a single man, such as Ben Hogan and Sam Snead in their days, Byron Nelson and later Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Bill Casper

Good Players

There are too many good players and they're all greedy and tough

The Masters, April 10-13 traditionally has been an exception Since 1958, Palmer has won it four times and Nicklaus three Bob Goalby is defending champion

Now Palmer has a bad hip Nicklaus says he just hasn't got in the groove — "I hit the ball and come up dry" he explains Casper admits he's trying to sneak up on the tournament he has never won

All played creditably in the tournament here this weekend but at the tournament's end it was a duel between Ray Floyd the 26-year-old, curly haired bachelor, and the 130-pound 41-year-old Dickinson Playing in gusty winds over the 7,221-yard, par 72 deerwood course they finished in a tie at 278 10 under par, and then Floyd clinched it by knocking in a birdie on the first extra hole a dog-leg par 5 He put his third shot two feet from the pin

Lee Trevino, the U S Open champion, and tied with South Africa's Gary Player, who had a final 71, and young Dewitt Weaver, who closed with a 72

'We've Never Run Into a Team Like That,' Beloit Mentor Says of Neenah

MADISON (AP) — "We were waiting for them to stop hitting," Beloit Coach Bernie Barkin said with envy after his team squeaked past Neenah 80-79 in two overtimes Saturday night to win the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball title

"They never quit." Barkin said of Neenah's Rockets "We've just never run into a team like that"

Call it luck, call it heroics or call it good strategy and a great shot Beloit needed it and everything else the Purple Knights could muster to win"

'It" was a 41-foot desperation toss by Lamont Weaver, who fired from the far side of midcourt with the Purple Knights down by two points With the sound of the buzzer still echoing the ball slipped through the cords and the game was tied, forcing overtime play

Settled Down

'I haven t settled down yet," Barkin said Sunday when asked about Weaver's shot "I felt like the man on a flying trapeze grasping for that ring"

"I didn't have time to think, only pray," Weaver said of the shot

I still can't believe it," Barkin added

The shot was set up of necessity by persistently hot shooting on the part of Neenah's Rockets against the season-long, top-rated school in The Associated Press polls

Tom Kopitzke and Tom Koepke peppered the nets from medium to long range, and Beloit trailed 35-29 at the half

The efforts of Weaver and Bruce Brown led a Purple Knight rally that brought Beloit back to within two points, setting the stage for Weaver's bomb

Every Advantage

'Kopitzke doesn't know the meaning of the word miss," Barkin lamented after the game 'And that Koepke kept taking every advantage of every hole that popped up in our defense"

Neenah coach Ron Emerson, having seen Weaver twice deprive his Rockets of seeming victory, tried to avoid appearing too glum "It's just one of those things," he said bravely.

He nodded appreciatively when a spectator, Gov. Warren P Knowles, remarked "It was just the fickle finger of fate."

The emotional exhaustion expressed by everyone involved after the nerve-straining contest helped underscore the fact that Neenah emerged from the tournament deserving a good deal more respect than the pre-tourney predictions had allowed the Rockets

Display of Pride

With a display of pride for a team with which "I can't say I'm disappointed," Einerson remarked "We proved to somebody we were down here. I don't think anybody believed it before"

Barkin noted his Knights had often gotten off to slow starts throughout the season, and had to fight hard to come back And against a team like Neenah, he said, he would prefer his "boys to get off to a 100-1 lead if possible"

Barkin said Weaver's toss was part of a play that had been set up in anticipation of just such a situation when Weaver's accuracy would be needed in a clutch situation

"But the play had been set up from the midline, never back 41 feet," Barkin said, holding up a sketch of the play diagram

Barkin admitted he felt "very uneasy," as Weaver unloosed the bomb "But you've got to have that kind once in a while You've got to be lucky."

Nets Say They Will Try for Lew Alcindor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The skidding New York Nets lost their 10th straight game but they're assured of a shot at a nifty consolation prize—certain to be UCLA's Lew Alcindor

The Miami Floridians built a 20-point halftime lead and breezed a 123-109 American Basketball Association victory over New York's newest pro basketball team Sunday to assure the hapless Nets of the worst finish in the ABA

The Nets' performance assured them of the league's number number one college draft choice and Mel Basel, the Nets' executive director of operations, said "We'll say we'll take Alcindor right now"

The question now is will Alcindor take them?

"The Indiana Pacers increased their first-place lead in the Eastern Division to 1½ games over idle Kentucky as the Pacers beat Minnesota 132-113 for their 11th straight victory.

Brown in Realignment Group

Top AFL Brass Displays New Militancy

By MURRAY CHASS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif (AP) — American Football League owners weren't about to stage a sit-in or even a swim-in at this desert resort at the foot of the San Jacinto Mountains last week But they went home a much more unified and militant band of millionaires than ever before

Their new militancy is reflected in the new realignment committee they named at the end of their week-long winter meetings with the National Football League

Oakland's Al Davis, who as league commissioner spearheaded the signing war that culminated in the 1966 merger is the chairman of the four man group that replaces the trio of owners who, with their NFL counterparts on the joint study committee, had unanimously recommended retention of the present setup for 1970

The other three members of the new committee are Paul Brown of Cincinnati, Lamar Hunt of Kansas City and Gene Klein of San Diego Hunt was retained from the original group, but Buffalo's Ralph Wilson and Boston's Billy Sullivan were not

New Strongman

Brown's is the most interesting name among the quartet. In the league for only one year, the former NFL owner-coach has emerged as one of the AFL's strongmen

He did it by going to the meetings determined to gain realignment for 1970 and convincing some of his more moderate colleagues that they should not buy what the NFL was selling —the two leagues as they are now plus some inter-league games.

He, and those who thought as he did, particularly Gerald Phipps of Denver, wound up turning the meetings around and sending all 26 owners home with the knowledge that there has to be some form of realignment

During the meeting the AFL owners made it clear to the NFL what their goals are in a realignment They listed them as follows

Six Goals

1 Retain identities, 2 Set up a good television package 3 Home-and-home competition between teams in the same division to determine a true champion 4 Small numerical groupings 5 Preseason interleague games 6 Traditional rivalries

The AFL at first did not necessarily care about small groupings but has shifted its attitude in acquiescence to the NFL.

The plan that would best fit these points is the one that would transfer three NFL teams to the AFL, resulting in two 13-team conferences of two divisions of four teams and one of five

That's the plan the NFL study committee reportedly has before it now

Double-Overtime Finale

Reliance Printers Win Crown in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Green Bay Reliance Printers rallied from a 21-point deficit in the third period to gain a 93-all tie at the end of regulation play, and then went on to beat De Pere Swan Club 110-107, in double overtime for the title in the 30th annual Kaukauna Athletic Council Basketball Tournament Sunday

Bud Muntner was the star for the winners, collecting 42 points, including five in the second extra session which saw the Green Bay quint out-score its foed by an 11-8 margin The tilt was deadlocked at 99-all after the first overtime

Tom Gossens backed Muntner's efforts with 19 points for Reliance, while Wayne Plinska and Joe Emer added 14 and 12, respectively Tom Lemorande's 28 markers paced Swan and Roy Smits scored 18

Swan Club led at the ends of the first three quarters by margins of 28-26 64-50, and 82-75 only to have Reliance come back

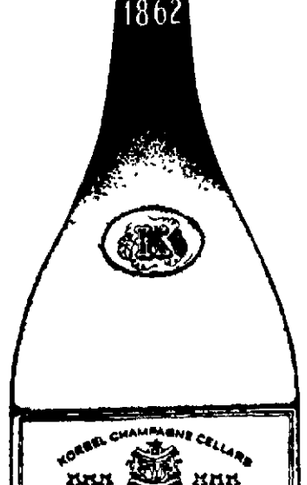
It's one of the few interesting things that happened during the entire Buchanan Administration



The last years of the Buchanan Administration were exciting years for the Korbel Brothers. They had gone into the grape business, and the grape business had gone into a catastrophic slump. Fortunately for the brothers, grapes have one big advantage over stocks and bonds: you can make wine out of them. That's what they decided to do, and it wasn't long before they were making champagne— and along with champagne, brandy. They had two rules about making their brandy:

(1) It should start with champagne wines.
(2) It should age up to five years in white oak casks.

Today, twenty-two administrations later, we still cling to the same two rules.

Beloit Celebrates

'Going Back for Gold' Motto Inspired Knights To State Championship

BELOIT (AP) — It was the end of the rainbow for Beloit basketball fans, and their pot of gold was the big, gleaming trophy symbolizing the Purple Knights' supremacy in Wisconsin high school basketball.

Thousands of cheering screaming fans jammed the school gym Sunday to officially welcome their team—the squad that defeated a tough Neenah team, 80-79 in double overtime, Saturday night to win the state tournament crown

"I've waited a whole year to be back on this platform," Barkin told the throng as he held up the shimmering yellow trophy. A year ago, when I showed you the silver trophy, it was with a forced smile. Not so this time. This smile is genuine."

Last year Beloit lost to Manitowoc in the title game and took home the second-place silver trophy.

"I can't say enough for these young men," said the coach, who, in practice, kids his players with a shout of "let's get going, girls."

Had a Desire

"The team's motto all year has been 'Going back for gold,' " he said. "Winning the title has been a burning, driving situation as far as we're concerned."

The hysteria in Beloit, a city of 33,000, started Saturday night when a five-mile-long caravan of 3,000 cars full of wild-eyed fans met the team bus.

With flashing headlights and blinking tail lights, the motorcade wormed through Beloit, past thousands of fans, women in curlers, children in pajamas and youngsters with sparklers.

Then the procession moved to the high school where about 5,000 persons jammed the gym to celebrate. It was Beloit's sixth title, a state record. But it had been 22 years since the Purple Knights came home with a state crown.

"We've waited a year for this after coming back last year as losers," Barkin said. "I've been looking forward to getting up here again, and this time be No. 1."

Visit Knowles

The team had little chance for sleep before being taken back to Madison for Sunday breakfast with Gov. Warren P. Knowles and a tour of the governor's mansion.

Then back to the school for more celebrating.

Outside, streets were lined with signs: "Leave it to Weaver." proclaiming Lamont Weaver's half-court toss that tied the game at the the buzzer and sent it into overtime.

Inside, the biggest cheer was for Superintendent of Schools Len Briteli.

"The health commissioner has told me there is an epidemic," he said. "one of hysteria, fatigue and emotion It began Thursday and reached its peak at 10 p.m. last night. Therefore, for the welfare of all at the high school, there will be no school Monday."

Maybe, by tonight, the emotion will cool, but things won't be back to normal for some time at Beloit.

"When I was in high school I thought a hundred dollars a week was big money"

Maybe it was—then.
But not now. Now you want more — a new car, a great vacation, maybe someday even a home of your own.
And you know you're not going to get them sticking with the job you have.
So you decide to get something new, something better.
Good pay? Sure you want that. But you want other things, too: A little respect so you don't have to mumble when someone asks what you do for a living. And something with a future. The chance to earn more. To get someplace. To be someone.
Now if you could only get that break, the fresh start . . .
Sound a little bit like you talking? Good. Because we can give you that break, that fresh start.
We can give you the opportunity to become a computer programmer — a booming career, with over 25,000 job vacancies just waiting for people with the right training.
What you need is the desire and the aptitude. You supply the desire and we'll supply a test that tells us quickly and accurately if you have the aptitude. Who are we? ECPI Electronic Computer Programming Institute, a major education institution with over 100 training centers in the U.S. and Canada.
We are completely equipped with IBM machines, textbooks, and a staff of teachers who are professionals. We also have a free placement service that can help you find one of those 25,000 jobs after you graduate.
That's what we have. But do you have what it takes to be a computer programmer? If you're between 18 and 40 and a high school graduate the answer is probably yes. But make sure. Clip the coupon and send for your free sample test. It's your first step toward making that fresh start.

* Over 100 ECPI schools coast to coast.

Mafia Operation Got Small Business Loan

Report FBI Blundered in First Request For Name Check of Firm's Principals

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The government's loan of nearly half a million dollars to a Mafia-controlled company in New York run by one of the country's most vicious loan sharks reveals how Small Business Administration (SBA) policies can favor well-heeled hoodlums over impoverished ghetto merchants.

Evans

Novak

The SBA's $466,000 in loans to the gangster-owned ANR Leasing Co in 1965 was reveled last week in hearings by New York state investigators. Who is to blame is hidden by bureaucratic secrecy here and perhaps may be pried loose only by Congressional probing. Available information does point to slipshod administration by the SBA, possibly aided by a rare investigatory lapse by the FBI.

Beyond the identity of the culprit, however, is the exposure of what's wrong with rigid government lending policies while Negro businessmen in the ghetto are often denied loans because of poor credit ratings, the good risk has the best shot at the Federal Treasury quite apart from the desirability of his enterprise.

Significantly, the suspect loans of $66,000 and $400,000 to ANR were made by SBA's New York area office run by Charles Kriger, a 67-year-old lawyer closely connected with the Brooklyn Democratic Organization. Removed from his post last fall because of a notorious record for withholding loans from minority businessmen, Kriger has now been reinstated through the demands of his patron Rep. John J. Rooney of Brooklyn.

While super-cautious in processing loan requests by ghetto enterprises, Kriger found no difficulty in quickly approving the application of the unsavory cast of characters running ANR Leasing.

One officer of ANR is Thomas McKeever, a former official of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) who has been convicted by Federal courts of labor racketeering and truck theft. The other listed officer in ANR, John Masiello, Jr., has a name much more familiar to students of the Mafia.

His father, John Masiello, Sr., really controlled ANR and is an important middle-level Mafia figure. A soldier in the Vito Genovese family, he served federal time for grand larceny and is one of New York's biggest loan sharks. Inside the Mafia, he has argued for the loan shark business as the safest and most lucrative of rackets.

FBI Blunder?

Officially, the SBA flatly refuses to say whether it requested a name check from the FBI—routine procedure—before granting the loans to ANR. However, two separate SBA officials informed us privately that name checks were requested and that the ANR officials were given a clean bill of health by the FBI—a blunder of proportions that would defy credulity.

Even if the FBI erred, however, the SBA's own investigators should have discovered ANR's messy pedigree with any thorough check. Rather, there is evidence that Kriger's SBA office depended almost exclusively on the credit reference given ANR by Royal National Bank of New York and its president, William Goldfine (which financed 25 per cent of the loan while Uncle Sam provided the rest). Goldfine had close associations with both the senior Masiello and Kriger, bridging the gap between organized crime and government.

Thus, the SBA took at face value ANR's explanantion that the loan was needed for "consolidation of debts and working capital." In fact, investigators in New York believe it likely that the Federal money was pumped into Masiello's loan shark racket where victims pay at 300 per cent. In November, 1966, SBA headquarters in Washinbton, belatedly, became aware of ANR's gangster origin and requested an FBI check. This time, the FBI responded with full criminal records for Masiello Sr. and McKeever. Moreover, Masiello Jr. now had acquired his own record: indictment in an August, 1965, barrom brawl in Yonkers, N.Y., resulting in the death of one elderly businessman and the loss of an eye by another.

Even with the FBI's dossier at hand, the SBA remained silent as ANR conscientiously repaid its debt. Indeed, SBA's scandalous loan might never have been exposed had not the New York State Investigation Commission come across it in its probe of the Malia.

Furthermore ANR Leasing decided to make another try for federal largesse. On January 1, it applied for a new loan of an undetermined amount from the SBA.

Incredibly, the SBA's New York office did not reject the application out of hand but dispatched it to Washington where the bureaucrats pondered without decision. After last week's revelation in New York, however, ANR Leasing Co. withdrew its application. The Malia figured, finally, there was some limit to favors from Washington.

License May Be Needed for Pest Control

Bill Would Require Regulations in Use of Pesticides

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — As another step toward closer public control of pesticide use, conservation spokesmen are backing a legislative bill that would provide for the licensing and regulation of persons commercially engaged in custom pest control.

Sponsor of the measure is the usually influential Natural Resources Council of State Agencies, consisting of the heads of major state departments dealing with natural resource management problems.

There has been increasing resistance to the use of pesticides because of the fear of environmental pollution and the destruction of fish, game and other forms of wildlife.

Administration

The measure would provide for the administration of the licensing act by the State Department of Agriculture which would examine applicants for registration.

Custom pesticide application in Wisconsin is widespread because of the size and variety of the state's fruit and vegetable production industry. Sometimes such operators are engaged also by other farm proprietors.

Proposed license fee for a pest control business would be $50 and additional certificates of registration at $10 would be required for agents and employes of such enterprises. The permits would be renewable annually, although a temporary pest control license would be available at $5.

Those persons engaged in such work before the enactment of the porposed law would be exempted from fees or examinations until 1972. Subject to the review of the state pesticide review board, the department would adopt rules for those engaged in pest control. The law is proposed to become effective next April 1.

Neenah Driver Hurt in Mishap After Passing Out

CLINTONVILLE — Warren J. Doherty, 44, Neenah, received face lacerations in a one-car accident at 4:15 p.m. Friday, approximately 300 feet west of Bear Creek Corners on State 22. His 1963 model car was a total loss.

According to the state traffic patrol's report, Doherty was southbound on U.S. 45, made a right turn onto State 22 when he blacked out and his car went into the ditch and hit a culvert.

Heuer and Sievers ambulance, Clintonville, was called and took Doherty in to the hospital where he was treated and released.

Californians to Note Expected Catastrophes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some doomsayers and prophets have predicted most of California will be destroyed in earthquakes next month, and in honor thereof the San Francisco Municipal Court staff is having a party.

The event scheduled April 13 features end of the world cocktails, earthquake fizzes and catastrophe royals at 69 cents each.

The Muni Quartet, led by clerk Al McDonald, will sing "Nearer My God to Thee," as others hand out life preservers and black armbands.

R. C. Flom, Head of Packaging Council, To Retire March 31

Russell C. Flom, Menasha, is retiring March 31, as president of the Paperboard Packaging Council (PPC) of Washington, D.C.

He has served as the president of PPC since it was organized four years ago. The council is a trade association with approximately 130 members from the paperboard converting industry.

Flom

Flom earlier had spent his entire business career with the Marathon Division of American Can Co. and its predecessor companies and had lived in Menasha during most of that time. Active in the pulp, paper, paperboard and packaging industry for nearly 44 years, Flom has served in many industry assignments.

Clerk Tells Methods For Absentee Voting

KAUKAUNA — Registered voters who will be out of the city or unable to make it to the polls for the April 1 election have until 5 p.m., March 28 to apply in writing for absentee ballots, according to City Clerk Karl E. Marzahl.

Absentee ballot voting may be done at the city clerk's office until 5 p.m., March 31. Absentee ballots are now available at the clerk's office.

Legislators Want Vote Results Delayed

Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A group of rural legislators including Assemblyman Cletus Vander Perren of Brown County has sponsored a bill that would prohibit the disclosure of election results before 8 p.m. of election days in towns, villages and fourth class cities even if the local governing board provides for the closing of the polls at an earlier time.

Cultural Programs

Extension Sessions Are Planned at Hilbert

HILBERT — "Discovering and Learning with University Extension" is the theme for three sessions to be presented here at the high school from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays, April 30 and May 7 and 14.

The cultural and academic programs are the first in Calumet County in the series Continuing Education for Women, and have been planned with Prof. Michael Doyle, continuing education agent, by an advisory committee. Members of the committee are Mrs. William Engler, Jr., Mrs. James Knauf, Mrs. John Suttner and Florence Woelfel, Chilton; Mrs. Henry Meyer, New Holstein and Mrs. Gilbert Thiel, Sherwood.

Specialists from three major disciplines of the University of Wisconsin will explore their specialty in an effort to give an insight into each area and discover possibilities of learning with Extension in Calumet County.

The April 30 program will be presented by Dr. Kenneth Johnson, chairman of the Department of Journalism, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee. It will be a session on communication. "How to think when we don't think about how we think".

Prof. William Vickery, University of Wisconsin, Menasha, will discuss literature at the May 7 session — "An insight into the thoughts and philosophies of modern American writers."

Modern Art

Slides and lecture, and an examination of the complex panorama of modern art, will show art as a reflection of the turbulent vitality of our culture. How artistic values can meaningfully express the human condition will be the final session given by Prof. Michael R. Kazar, department of art at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, scheduled for May 14.

A $6.50 fee will be required for the non-credit course with registration mailed to Prof. Michael Doyle at the courthouse, Chilton. No refunds will be made for sessions not attended. Other information may be obtained from the University Extension at Chilton or from members of the advisory committee.

Russia Had Democracy for Time Until Lenin and Goons Took Over

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Fifty-two years ago this month great, good news from Russia burst upon an anxious world. That the Communists have changed the date to October is typical, and the Reds' nonsense about freeing Russia from the tsar adds its own insult to freedom's injury.

On March 16, 1917, Nicholas II was aboard the royal train inspecting the German battlefront. There was a completely functioning Russian parliament — the Duma. It comprised duly elected representatives of the Russian people from every district of the nation.

The parliament had met February 27. And on the March day it called on the tsar to abdicate in favor of a provisional government formed in Petrograd (Leningrad). The government guaranteed his personal safety and that of the royal family. The tsar signed the abdication papers with fatalistic composure.

CONSTITUTION LIKE U. S.

Russia was to have a Constitution based on ours — a President popularly elected, House of Representatives, Senate, Supreme Court, our system of states with their states' rights — our government in total.

The parliament voted to remain in the war, come what may.

When the news reached Washington, Woodrow Wilson appeared before Congress to officially announce it. The President said: "Here is great support for the forces fighting for freedom in the world, for justice and for peace. Here is a fit partner for a league of honor."

On March 22, 1917, the United States recognized the provisional government. We were the first nation in the world to do so.

President Wilson immediately dispatched the distinguished Elihu Root to Petrograd as head of an American mission. France and Great Britain promptly responded by their recognition. "This is Europe's springtime. Russia is free," extolled The Times of London.

Lenin, the Communist profiteer, was not even in Russia at the time. In fact, he had not been in Russia for 10 years. This Red hero sat comfortably in Switzerland, officially on the Allied governments' blacklist as an enemy of our war efforts — a fifth columnist and saboteur in the pay of the Germans. There, sitting in a Zurich cafe, Lenin learned for the first time that the tsar had abdicated by reading about it in a Zurich newspaper.

AIDED BY GERMANY

Transported across Germany at German expense in a German-sealed train, Lenin came back to seize a free Russian people already liberated from the tsar and to make a separate peace with Germany.

Lenin's first act was to stage a Communist demonstration against the American Embassy in Petrograd. An utter coward, he extolled his followers from the rear and, when his Putsch failed, he fled to Finland.

When the Communist fifth column finally succeeded in assassinating Russia's provisional government — the horrible nights of the long knives that all Reds now glorify as "The October Revolution" — Lenin himself seized the superauthority that parliament had taken away from the tsar. And to this day the Soviet Union all but ignores the true events of February 27-March 16, 1917, that actually ended the tsarist rule.

Lenin shared control of the Red Army with Leon Trotsky, who promptly arrived fit as a fiddle from Brooklyn, N. Y. They signed a separate peace with paymaster Germany at Brest-Litovsk.

This blow cost our country dearly — the most catastrophic blow we suffered in the war. President Wilson was asking for a draft of 500,000 Americans. Overnight, the German-supported Red treachery required a new draft of two million.

Nixon Greets Trudeau as First Official Visitor

Canadian Premier In Washington for Talks, Festivities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon welcomed Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau today as the "first official visitor" of his administration and stressed the common ties of friendship binding the neighboring countries.

Rain forced the welcoming ceremonies indoors. But there were trumpet flourishes and a military honor guard lining the driveway as the 49-year-old bachelor prime minister arrived at the White House to begin talks with Nixon and a round of social activities.

Nixon said the friendship of many years between Canada and the United States does not stem from a totality of agreements, but "lively diversity" is the hallmark of that friendship.

Nixon said there might be some differences but, as friends, the two countries can discuss them "and find in most instances a common ground," that may provide an even better solution.

Exchange Greetings

He and Trudeau stood on the stage in the East Ballroom, beneath a glittering chandelier for the exchange of welcoming speeches. A few hundred Canadians on hand jammed corridors and the ballroom.

They applauded Trudeau, and waved U.S. and Canadian flags.

Nixon cited the sharing of a common border, common law, common language and common characteristics and "a very precious asset—the asset of friendship" between the two countries.

He told Trudeau he hoped he can make him "feel as much at home as my wife and so many hundreds of thousands of Americans have been welcomed when we visited there (Canada) as private citizens."

Mrs. Nixon did not participate in the ceremonies. But she and the President will welcome him at a white tie dinner tonight—first formal state dinner of the Nixon administration.

Trudeau, making his first official visit here, expressed thanks for "the very cordial welcome" and said he appreciates Nixon according him this honor.

He, too, stressed the "very many ties that link us."

World Problems

Trudeau said he is looking forward to a discussion with Nixon of matters of mutual interest and getting Nixon's views on world problems.

He said "Like so many Canadians, I always look forward to a visit to the United States with great pleasure."

Nixon, who has yet to convince Congress of the need for a missile defense system, will likely be questioned by Trudeau about the matter during this visit.

Trudeau has confronted the same sort of critical debate in his Parliament over the proposed antiballistic missile—ABM—program.

In addition to the ABM discussions, the two days of talks are expected to involve Canada's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other matters of continental defense.

Allied Drive Is Under Way Near DMZ

Enemy Supply Lines Are Targets

SAIGON (AP) — More than 3,000 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen backed by an American armored column are pushing another major counter offensive south of the demilitarized zone.

Operation Maine Crag is aimed at a growing North Vietnamese threat to allied bases along the northern frontier. Marine officers at Da Nang said in the past month patrols have sighted as many as 50 enemy tracked vehicles and trucks carrying war materials toward allied bases. Some were believed to be big artillery guns.

It was the second big American drive announced in the past two days and the third within a week, as the Viet Cong's spring offensive rolled into its fifth week.

Hurt by Weather

Maine Crag was launched March 15 but has been slowed down frequently by bad weather. The U S. Command did not announce it until today for security reasons.

The Marines said the allied force had killed 43 enemy troops so far and captured two prisoners and 129 rifles. Ten Americans were reported killed and 64 wounded. But the allies' main purpose is to cut North Vietnamese supply lines from Laos into South Vietnam.

Maine Crag is taking place along the Laotian border, about 25 miles south of the western flank of the DMZ and just south of the old Khe Sanh combat base, where U.S. forces held off a North Vietnamese siege for 2½ months last year.

One of the Marines' objective is to cut Highway 926 from Laos into South Vietnam. U.S. patrols have sighted North Vietnamese self-propelled artillery guns along the highway, which leads toward the Marines' Vandegrift combat base, the major allied operations base on the northern frontier.

Another Khe Sanh

Field commanders think these big guns could be used to turn Vandegrift base into another Khe Sanh, which was pounded daily with enemy artillery until the siege was lifted. Khe Sanh was later abandoned, a policy of greater mobility was announced, and Vandegrift, 20 miles from the Laotian border and out of range of North Vietnamese artillery inside Laos, became the major Marine combat base along the frontier.

Maj. Gen. Raymond Davis, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, said that Highway 926 was particularly important now because the Marines had cut off other enemy access routes in Operation Dewey Canyon, a two-month drive that has just ended.

Davis said that in Dewey Canyon the Marines cut off the road going into the northern end of the A Shau Valley, but the enemy is "still determined somehow to get into his base areas west of Quang Tri and Hue," from which he could mount attacks on those two provincial capitals.

On Sunday, the U.S Command took the security wraps off another offensive, Massachusetts Striker, which sent more than 2,000 American paratroopers into the A Shau Valley, 35 to 40 miles south of the Maine Crag operational area. The valley is the biggest North Vietnamese supply base and staging area in South Vietnam's northern quarter.

Helicopters landed troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in the valley on March 1 for the third major allied invasion of the area in less than a year.

But contact has been light and sporadic since the offensive kicked off, indicating that the paratroopers have encountered only rear guard and supply troops. U.S. headquarters reported that 61 North Vietnamese soldiers and 23 American paratroopers have been killed so far and 53 paratroopers wounded.

U.S. headquarters also indicated a North Vietnamese build-up in the extreme northwest corner of South Vietnam, 2½ to 3 miles south of the DMZ and within three miles of the Laotian border. It said U.S. B52s dropped nearly 400 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese camps and bunkers in that area.

Loopholes in Law

21 Millionaires Pay No Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are two kinds of millionaires in the United States: those who pay federal income taxes and those who don't. In the latter group there were 21 last year.

How is it possible, you ask as you reach for your checkbook after a losing bout with Form 1040, to have an income of more than $1 million a year and yet not pay any federal income tax?

The method most favored by untaxed millionaires is to give away things that have grown in value since they were acquired. Stocks, real estate, a share of the donor's business, art objects — all are good for this treatment.

The current value of the gift is deducted from income subject to taxation. So it's quite possible to reduce taxable income to zero.

One return cited in a recent Treasury Department study showed adjusted gross income of $10.8 million, contributions totaling $10.5 million and other deductions of $400,000-plus. No taxable income and hence no tax.

Another taxpayer's adjusted gross income of $4.3 million was erased by $4.5 million deductions, including $4 million in contributinos.

No Ironclad Rule

Ordinarily, a taxpayer may deduct no more than 30 per cent of his income for charitable gifts. But it's not an ironclad rule.

A special exception allows the claiming of contributions without limit if in 8 of the past 10 years the taxpayer's contributions plus his taxes have added up to 90 per cent or more of income.

One aspect of these gifts that bothers those seeking reform of the tax laws is that it is legal for Mr. Rich to make his donations to a foundation run by his family.

And perhaps the contribution to the Rich Foundation is a share of Mr. Rich's business. This kind of giving, a Treasury study says drily, "lacks the finality which characterizes a true parting with property."

Before he left office in January, Treasury Secretary Joseph W. Barr told Congress many middle-income taxpayers are losing confidence in the fairness of the tax system. His warning of a "taxpayer revolt" is still echoing on Capitol Hill. The new Treasury team is also pledged to a reworking of the tax laws.

If the unlimited charitable contribution rule is the favorite of untaxed millionaires, one of the runners-up would have to be the depreciation rules.

Vanishing Cream

Depreciation is a great vanishing cream for taxable income. You don't have to be a millionaire to use it, but it helps.

Suppose you're a corporation executive poking along at $250,000 a year. Normally, you might figure on paying about $110,000 in income tax.

What you might do instead is borrow $15 million and buy a nice big apartment building. Figure an income from rents of $1 million, reduced by maybe $500,000 for upkeep and loan payments.

So far, you're $500,000 in the black as a landlord, but don't worry about having to pay tax

Each Side Blames the Other

Guns Roar Across Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian and Israeli guns blazed away across the Suez Canal today after one of the leading Arab guerrilla organizations reported large movements of Israeli troops into the Sinai Desert.

The firing continued through one U.N. call for a cease-fire at 10 a.m. U.N. observers called for another cease-fire at noon, when the Israelis said they stopped shooting. But Israeli army spokesmen said the Egyptians continued firing in several sectors until 12:30 p.m.

Each army accused the other of firing first. They agreed it began at the southern end of the canal then spread north, all the way to El Qantara at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

Israel said it suffered no casualties or damage.

Clash in Jordan

Elsewhere, Jordanian and Israeli forces clashed for 70 minutes in the northern Jordan Valley, a Jordanian military spokesman said. He claimed that Israel started that exchange and said there were no Jordanian casualties.

The firing across the canal finally stopped after two requests by U.N. observers.

It was the first artillery duel along the canal in six days. Sporadic fighting has been going on across the 103-mile waterway for a month. Six Israelis and the Egyptian army chief of staff have been killed and 25 Israelis wounded.

Two recent lulls lasting several days were attributed to sandstorms in the area.

An Israeli spokesman said hostilities began today when one Egyptian shell was fired on Israeli troops in the southern sector of the canal. He reported firing became heavy along a 15-mile front, from the Little Bitter Lake to Port Taufiq.

Cairo Radio said the Israelis fired first at 6:30 a.m., sending over three shells from a moving tank south of the Bitter Lakes.

Two hours later, the Egyptian communique continued, the Israelis opened up with tanks and artillery in the Suez and Port Taufiq areas.

"Our forces answered the enemy to silence his guns and to destroy his forces, which started the firing," the Egyptians said.

A later Cairo communique said the fighting spread to Ismailia, midway along the 103-mile waterway. Still later the Israeli army reported firing had started in the El Qantara and Firdan regions at the northern end of the canal.

Scoffs at Reports

An Israeli army spokesman scoffed today at the report of Israeli troop movements into Sinai made by the Al Fatah guerrilla organization. "We regard all Fatah claims as largely imaginatory," he said.

Egypt in recent weeks has been reporting Israeli buildups along the canal as justification for artillery attacks the Egyptians have made across the waterway.

Al Fatah said Israel appeared to be moving almost all its forces on the Jordanian front to the Sinai in what appeared to be "more than just another exercise."

"It could be a maneuver to put Jordan off guard or could signal a major attack on the canal," said an Al Fatah spokesman in Amman.

President, Advisers Confer; Achievements Unannounced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says no significant announcements should be expected following the weekend talks held by President Nixon and four top advisers on the course of the Vietnam war.

Nixon spent much of Sunday discussing the war and prospects at the Paris peace talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, foreign policy adviser Henry A. Kissinger; the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Ellsworth Bunker, and Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, deputy American commander in the war zone.

Nothing was said following the talks about details or any decisions that might have been reached. But White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler had indicated earlier there would be no announcements on the talks.

With Bunker and Goodpaster staying on in Washington for the time being, Nixon is expected to talk with them again during the week as Nixon works under increasing congressional and political pressure to come up with some decisions on the war.

Retaliation Studied

In spite of the news blackout, it is known that Nixon has been considering what if any retaliatory action should be taken against North Vietnam because of the now month-long enemy offensive in South Vietnam.

And discussions of possible U.S. troop withdrawals from the combat zone have been held, although top administration officials have indicated a cut in U S troop strength is not now in sight.

Nixon's weekend was typical of the breaks he has taken from the White House—fast-moving and mostly devoted to business.

After his arrival in California he issued a statement criticizing student disorders but leaving the responsibility for controlling campus dissidents to college officials.

He also toured the famous San Juan Capistrano Mission and the Camp Pendleton Marine Base as well as holding talks with his advisers.

Andy, 14, who gets to the hospital whenever he can, was asked why he makes the visits. "Well," he answered, "I guess I just like people."

Eavesdropping Rule to Stand

Court Refuses To Review Case Despite U. S. Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without explanation, the Supreme Court refused today to reconsider a far-reaching decision on eavesdropping.

The Justice Department, in an appeal last Wednesday, had urged the court to prevent defendants in "external security" cases from obtaining bugging files.

The plea, entered by Solicitor General Erwin Griswold, had urged modification of the March 10 decision "in the interest of self-preservation" of the nation.

The plea included an assertion by the government that wire tapping and eavesdropping to obtain foreign intelligence information are exempt from the restraints imposed by the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The court obviously disagreed, but following tradition did not set forth its reasons for declining to reconsider its ruling. Reconsideration is rarely granted.

Thus the action was not entirely unexpected, although the speed with which the court acted raised some eyebrows.

The 5-3 ruling entitled convicted spies, extortionists and other criminal defendants to determine for themselves whether prosecution stemmed from illegal electronic surveillance from federal aegnts.

The ruling dealt specifically with the conviction of a Russian chauffeu, Igo Ivanov, who was

Chilsen Disclaims Tie With Knowles Finance Program

WAUSAU (AP) — Walter J. Chilsen, the Republican nominee for Congress in a special 7th District election April 1, disassociated himself from Gov. Warren P. Knowles budget and tax-increase proposals Sunday.

The state senator said his Democratic opponent, Assemblyman David R. Obey, had used "distortion and deception" in linking him with the financial program Knowles has submitted to the state legislature.

"The governor's tax proposal is not mine," Chilsen said during an interview.

No Endorsement

Asked to comment on statements he made in January when Knowles handed legislators his budget proposals, Chilsen said: "I didn't mean it as an endorsement of the budget itself."

The Knowles administration has said there could be a $400 million difference between anticipated revenue and the $1.6 billion proposed budget for the 1969-71 fiscal biennium. Knowles is asking lawmakers to raise state income and sales taxes.

Chilsen said he has not endorsed the entire $1.6 billion budget proposal, nor the Republican governor's suggestion that income tax increases not be applied to personal income of more than $11,000 a year.

Chilsen Accused

Obey, in a weekend address to the Wisconsin Young Democrats convention in Green Bay, had accused Chilsen of supporting Knowles' tax policies, adding: "You can't support a bad tax policy and then go to Washington and support tax reform."

Chilsen said Sunday he had referred to Knowles' tax outline as "realistic" only because it involved a wide distribution of modest increases rather than a single, large increase in a particular category.

Obey Receives Party Funds For Campaign

Contribution Raises Committee's Total Donations to $5,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee demonstrated its interest in Wisconsin's 7th Congressional District special election April 1 with a $2,500 contribution Sunday to David Obey.

The state assemblyman now has received $5,000 from the committee, more than the committee has invested in any other Wisconsin congressional election in recent years, officials said.

Obey is the Democratic nominee opposing Republican state Sen. Walter J. Chilsen for the congressional post vacated when Melvin R. Laird became secretary of defense. Laird had represented the district for the GOP since 1952.

Campaign Gifts

Obey received the check Sunday from House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., while about 70 members of the party watched the ceremony.

Sponsors of the reception said the day's campaign donations — besides the committee's contribution — came to more than $1,000.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Sen. William Proxmire, both Wisconsin Democrats, told the reception they rate the contest between Obey and Chilsen as a close one.

Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey campaigned in Wausau, Wis., for Obey Friday, calling the 7th District campaign the first in a crucial political year for Democrats.

McCormack advised Obey: "Campaign as a Democrat."

Low Bids Exceed $500,000 Cost Anticipated by City; Building Contracts to be Awarded Tuesday

BRILLION — City officials will be faced with raising $181,570 in addition to the $500,000 already available after contracts are awarded Tuesday for a community recreation center and swimming pool.

Building contracts are expected to be awarded at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday on the $681,570 complex. Low bids among those received three weeks ago totaled $756,570, but by changing plans, officials have cut approximately $75,000 from the total cost.

The city had expected to pay for the complex out of $300,000 it borrowed and $200,000 it had saved through the past several years.

The $75,000 cut came after consultations of city officials, Jeff Nichols of the architectural firm of Nichols and Barone, Green Bay, and representatives of apparent low bidders. Changes include substitution of materials to be used, elimination of painting in some areas and deletion of a dumbwaiter, platform lift and landscaping.

Free Landscaping

The architectural firm has agreed to landscape the building when it is completed and at no cost to the city, Nichols said.

Apparent low bids opened Feb. 26 are general construction, A. J. Despins and Sons, Green Bay, $502,890; plumbing, $42,200 and heating and ventilating, $104,500, both August Winter and Sons, Appleton; electrical, Mikalec Electric Co., Manitowoc, $38,980 and pool construction, Dick Outdenhoven Construction Co., Kaukauna, $68,000.

Featured in the recreation facility's plans will be a seven-lane olympic swimming pool, a diving pool, a wading pool, sunning area, meeting rooms, kitchen facilities, a large multi-purpose room, office space and a one-story youth center wing.

The usual Monday meeting was changed to Tuesday to permit Mayor Clarence Wolf and aldermen to attend a meeting on Tarr Task Force recommendations tonight in Chilton.

Conglomerates Are Criticized By Many Sides

New Phenomenon Causes Concern, Creates Curiosity

NEW YORK (AP) — The corporate conglomerates are proving to be especially irritated as they come under criticism from Washington, from stock market officials, from each other and even from their once ecstatic stockholders

So sensitive are their stock prices, for example, that recent criticism has sharply deflated the prices of some. "Scratch a conglomerate," says an old adage, "and listen to the hiss of escaping air."

This isn't to suggest that conglomerate components are air. Most of them are made up of substantial, well developed companies with successful histories, mortared together by management, marketing awareness and various securities and borrowings.

In geology there is a graphic illustration of the conglomerate. It is a large, rounded boulder made up of many smaller rocks that have been shaped, honed, rolled and ground together by the great glaciers, and sometimes called puddingstone.

Not Understood

Curiosity about such companies is understandable, for they are a new phenomenon whose operating methods, goals and even results, good as they may appear on paper, are imperfectly understood.

It is their rapid growth, among other things, that causes immediate concern. Last year all records for mergers were shattered. The magazine Mergers & Acquisition counted more than 1,800 with a valuation of about $23 billion.

Where does such a powerful movement lead? What are its consequences to market freedom and prices? Are these companies healthy? Isn't the joining of two companies to form an ever larger one something like saying one plus one equals three?

Are healthy companies being merged into oblivion? Do conglomerates disclose enough of their internal activities so stockholders can make decisions? Are their methods of financing, which include much borrowed money, dangerous?

Like any young, growing body, the conglomerates are responding somewhat awkwardly. "Scratch a conglomerate," so goes another version of the old saw, "and get scratched right back."

Quick Response

Robert Haack, New York Stock Exchange president, currently is being scratched because he was quoted as suggesting the exchange might not list certain securities of one or two conglomerates. The response was instantaneous.

Not only did the per share price of major conglomerates skid immediately, but shortly thereafter one of the major conglomerates, Walter Kidde & Co., called a news conference during which Fred Sullivan, president and chairman, was quoted as saying:

"We hope we will get a solution of this situation by going to Mr. Haack's bosses."

Haack's bosses are the governors of the N.Y. Stock Exchange. Gustave Levy is chairman of that board. Levy also is a director of Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., one of the most successful and glamorous of the conglomerates.

Many conglomerates have more than casual concern about maintaining the price of their stock because that stock, after all, is what enables them to purchase other companies. Price-earnings ratios are all important.

Better Price

If, for example, a company creates an aura of success the stock market might reward it by bidding up the price of its shares to 35 times earnings. This gives it much more leverage in seeking acquisitions than i fits price-earnings ratio were nearer the average of about 18.

On the other hand, a falling stock price puts the conglomerate in an especially difficult position.

For one thing, it cannot grow as fast because its stock won't buy as much. And if it ceases to grow it loses its glamor. Then the problem compounds. It is amazing how quickly stockholders will abandon a company with fading charm.

It hasn't happened yet, on a large scale at least, but some business observers foresee the day when one conglomerate will gobble up a weakened, defenseless member of its own species.

That would be the ultimate triumph, for instead of getting one company at a time the surviving company might pick up several dozen.

New-Fallen Snow Can Make Life Worth Living

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Breaking a path in new-fallen snow and looking back and seeing that nothing is following you but your own footprints...The placid resignation of an old woman's hands, folded in her lap at a symphony concert...the sound of valley bells heard on a high hill at twilight.

Walking across the Brooklyn Bridge on a misty day when the towers of Manhattan loom like the spires of Camelot...A dog wigwagging his tail to show his eager willingness to share a crumb of your gladness or sadness...A little girl holding a yellow dandelion under her small boyfriend's chin to see if he likes butter.

Watching a bunch of bums eating Christmas turkey at a bowery mission...Having someone run to meet you with open arms...The bend in a river, a distant sail setting out to sea...The hearty taste of homemade beef stew on a wintry day.

Falling Star

The swirling white clouds of an old-fashioned steam locomotive, huffing and chuffing like a metal dragon impatient to be gone... Telling a child to wish upon a falling star, and wondering what that silent wish might be...Looking for four-leaf clovers on a fine summer afternoon, and being the first to find one.

Opening a telegram from a loved one, knowing for sure the news it brings will be good ...Throwing a winning ringer in a game of horseshoes against a better player...Standing by as a mare gives birth to her first shaky-legged colt...Two old men playing checkers on a bench outside the county courthouse, each trying to talk the other into making a mistake...Teaching a youngster how to tie his shoes.

The smell of a fresh-baked pie being taken from a hot oven ...Hearing the welcome sound of footsteps outside, waiting for the door to open...The comforting feel of putting on a worn sport coat your wife has been trying for years to get you to throw away... making friends with some park squarrels at the going price—peanuts.

Getting a letter from your son at college asking for advice instead of money...Attending a high school graduation and becoming suddenly aware that your daughter is by far the prettiest girl in the class...Catching a five pound bass in a lake which everybody said had already been fished out...The sight of twittering swallows around an old barn at dusk.

Finding, when no plumber can be reached, that after all you have the know-how to fix a leaky faucet yourself...The tangy taste of strawberries picked from your own garden...The redolence of anything made of leather...The gleam of antique silver or time-worn brass...Lighting up dinner table candles for someone cooking in the kitchen whom you hold dear.

Overhearing through an open window the blithe, rhythmic chants of children skipping rope on the pavement outside ...Having a long philosophic discussion with a cat whose only rejoinder is a questioning "meow"...Being told by a doctor he's never had a patient who stuck as Spartanly to a diet as you have, so now you can eat anything you want.

Going to a family reunion and standing around a piano, arm in arm, singing old sweet songs that even Lawrence Welk has forgotten...Pausing in a woodland stroll to watch a robin feed her young...Paying off a mortgage you felt might hang over your head forever.

Sitting in a rocking chair on your front porch with your shoes off, at peace with God and man, and knowing that there is nothing else on Earth for the moment that you have to do except rock back and forth and enjoy yourself. That is living.

School Board Race Expected to Create April Voter Interest

Ballot Also Offers 5 Ward Races, State Contests, 5 Referendums

Approximately 23,500 Appleton residents are registered to go to the polls April 1 to elect three board of education and 11 city council members.

While campaigning has been mild and there is a sign of electorate apathy, the six-way race for the school board is expected to capture the limelight.

A few aldermanic contests in the wards also may produce surprises.

There has been one hitch in pre-election arrangements with the state ballots being prepared later than usual by the Outagamie County Clerk's office, affecting the city's absente balloting schedule.

Ballots Late

City clerk Elder Broehm said he was forced to turn away some early-bird voters this week who came to his office to cast absentee ballots prior to leaving the city on trips.

The city clerk received the ballots from County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan Thursday night and absentee voting began Friday.

The mailing of absentee ballots to an estimated 310 servicemen and 94 civilians was delayed. As a result, all absentee ballots were sent air-mail.

In addition to local contests, voters will be asked to pick a Supreme Court justice, state superintendent of schools, Circuit Court judge and take positions on five statewide referendum questions.

Judge Contest

Incumbent Judge E. Harold Hallows is being challenged by Circuit Judge Clair H. Voss, Waukesha, in the Supreme Court test, while Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell, Appleton, faces no opposition and has assurance of winning another term.

The March primary cut the field of school board candidates from seven to six. Incumbents Helen Heil and John Schneider face keen competition for the three-year terms from Karl E. Becker, Dr. Keith M. Giese, Donald Heinritz and Mabel R. McClanahan.

Voters will cast ballots for three of the six aspirants when they go to their ward polling stations.

Five city council members have no competition and are assurred of re-election to two-year terms at $1,200 a year. They are Alds. Alvin E. Tews (5th), George Reynolds (7th), Arthur Hollihan (11th), William Errington (15th) and Orville Strutz (17th).

Ward Races

However, there will be races in the 1st Ward where Ald. Richard Huisman will attempt to overcome a primary lead posted by Bruze E. Stutzheim, who ran strong in a three-way contest.

In the 3rd Ward, Ald. William Wachtendonk faces competition from Orville H. Polzine. The 9th Ward contest pitts incumbent James Bethke against Edward R. Maloney. The 13th Ward race has Ald. Glenn W. Thompson opposed by James Vanden Boogaard, and in the 19th Ward, Ald. Ralph Gertsch is being challenged by Richard J. Schouten Jr.

In a special election to fill a term expiring in April, 1970, Ald. Harold M. Wolfgram is being tested by Clarence Mitchell, a former mayor, for the 16th Ward alderman position.

Wolfgram was elected by the city council last year to succeed the late Clifford Radder, beating out Mitchell, who also applied for the post.

Overall Market Loses Ground In Slow Trading

Declines led advances by about 20 issues.

Brokers said investors were acting cautiously, following the news that the Justice Department said it would file suit to force Ling-Temco-Vought, a conglomerate, to dispose of its interest in Jones & Laughlin Steel.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 at 333.6, with industrials off 1.6, rails off .9, and utilities off .4.

Ling-Temco-Vought and Jones & Laughlin both were delayed in opening on the New York Stock Exchange. Later, Ling-Temco-Vought opened on 7,500 shares at 65, off 1¼, and Jones & Laughlin opened on 20,000 shares at 30⅞, off 3⅝. Ling-Temco-Vought later was off 3¼ at 63.

Other conglomerates generally were lower. Loew's Theatres dipped 2⅝ to 42. AMK Corp. lost 1¾, and White Consolidated Industries was off 1. Gulf & Western Industries and National General dipped fractions.

Other steels generally were higher, with Bethlehem and U.S. Steel making fractional gains.

Motors, aircrafts and electronics issues were mixed.

No Mediation Session Yet Scheduled in Supplier Strike

No mediation session has been scheduled so far between the striking Operating Engineers Union and officials of the Fox Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association, it was learned today.

Negotiators for Local 139 and the association met for the second time last week since July 29 when the strike started, and it was announced both sides agreed to mediation.

A check with the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) office at Madison this morning disclosed no meeting is scheduled for either this or next week.

Mediation Report

Representatives for both sides in the long dispute had reported recently that a mediation attempt would be slated for last Friday or early this week.

In the meantime, the strike of Operating Engineers and Teamsters Local 563 against the seven-member ready mix and sand-gravel firm association entered its 32nd week today — the longest labor dispute in Fox Cities history.

A side development was a letter Robert Schlieve, chief negotiator for 563, sent to Donald Lee, WERC mediator, notifying him the Teamsters were "always ready and willing to meet at the bargaining table" with association negotiators.

Schlieve said he wrote the letter to counter reports the union refused to meet.

Poll Workers Go to School to Prepare for General Election

Appleton's 105 city election workers will go back to school tonight.

City Clerk Eldon Broehm announced he will be conducting a pre-election instruction class at Wilson Junior High School at 7:30 p.m.

"We want to get everything ready for next week so their are no problems," Broehm said, referring to the April 1 general election.

Appleton residents will be going to the polls to elect 11 aldermen and three school board members, along with balloting on state races and referendum questions

Broehm said the March 4 turnout for the primary, representing about 17 per cent of the city's registered voters, was disappointing and had hopes things would improve next week.

The city has 23-563 registered voters.

Expense Reports

In addition to discussing the election workers school, Broehm reminded candidates that 5 p.m. Tuesday is the deadline for filing pre-election campaign expense statements with the office.

On a related subject, he said absentee ballots are now available but reminded written requests for same must be received at his office by 5 p.m. Friday, March 28.

Persons making personal (in person) applications face a Monday, March 31 deadline.

Special Hours

There will be special votings hour for residents wishing to cast absentee ballots in the clerk's office at the city hall. Broehm said the time would be Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

For persons who have not registered to vote during the normal open registration period now expired, Broehm advised they could still register.

He explained any such person would have to be accompanied by two property owners in the ward where he or she resides to certify the applicant for registration resides in the ward and meets requirements for voting.

More than 300 ballots have been sent to servicemen stationed in the U.S. and abroad, the figure about the same as previous years, Broehm reported.

B. C. Schulz, Director of AAL, Is Dead

Bertram C. Schultz, 57, Saginaw, Mich., a member of the Aid Association for Lutherans Board of Directors for 33 years, died Sunday.

Schulz, operator of a real estate and general casualty insurance agency in Saginaw since 1935, became a member of the AAL board in 1936 and has served on most major committees. He was chairman in 1968. He also was active in many boards and committees of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Saginaw.

Memorials are being established through the Wisconsin Synod for the Lutheran Church of Central Africa and for the Church Extension Fund of the synod and for the organ fund of Michigan Lutheran Seminary, Saginaw.

NLRB Trial Tuesday for Teamsters

Teamsters Local 563 of Appleton will answer to secondary picketing charges at Oshkosh Tuesday in a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) trial.

Charges were originally filed by Oshkosh Ready-Mix Co. last fall when the striking Teamsters picketed a jobsite on Highway 47.

It was reported the firm sought to withdraw the charge but the NLRB indicated there was evidence enough to warrant a complaint against the union.

Notice was served and the trial is scheduled to begin tomorrow at 10 a.m.

There have been several NLRB hearings and trials in the Fox Valley over a period of several months stemming from strikes and disputes dealing with the ready-mix industry.

...An advisory referendum put on the ...ng election ballot by the legislature ... the approval of Gov. Knowles provides ...means for the people of Wisconsin to ...rmine to a significant extent the kind ...tate their children and grandchildren ...inhabit at the end of the century.

...ORAP-200, as it has been labelled by its ...ors, is a somewhat clumsy descriptive. ...presents an admittedly ambitious, but ...believe prudent and necessary, plan for ... enlargement of our state-sponsored ...grams of protection and improvement ...atural resources.

...Here are the questions you will find on ... ballot, and the voting on which will ...ly direct the decision of the legislature ...adison later this year:

..."Do you favor a program subject to ...nnial legislative review of greater ...e aid to municipalities for accelerated ...er pollution abatement facilities ...ough the issuance of bonds?

..."Do you favor a program subject to ...nnial legislative review which would ...and the state acquisition and develop...t of land program for recreational ...poses through the issuance of ...ds?"

...To be candid, we would have preferred ...newhat more descriptive presentation ...e questions. What is involved here is a ... for the borrowing of about $200,000.- ... as somewhat obliquely suggested by ...name ORAP-200.

...o be even more candid about it, the ... should know that the ultimate ...nditure may be as much as double the ...nt of borrowing, counting debt service charges over a period of about 30 years of the maturity of the debentures.

That is a sizeable amount. It is in fact the largest single borrowing program ever put forward in this state. But we believe it is necessary. As Gov. Knowles has said, the national government has defaulted on promises explicit and implicit to provide more aid to localities for the more intensive pollution abatement works that will cost them huge sums in succeeding years. About $140 millions of this bonding total would be reserved for state grants to localities to relieve them of the need for imposing additional burdens on property taxpayers who may not be able to bear them.

The remainder of the bonding would assure the continuation of the outdoors land acquisition and development program begun earlier in this decade by former Gov. Nelson, but which has been constricted lately by the inflation of land values colliding with a fixed budget based on the declining receipts of a segregated cigarette tax. Under the plan the legislature now is considering and is polling its constituents about, that cigarette tax would be transferred to the state general fund and the borrowing for recreational preserves would be fixed to the total property tax valuation of the state. Thus as inflation continues with respect to the cost of land buying and development, the bonding base would be enlarged also with the increase in taxable values. The Post-Crescent recommends a yes vote on both questions involving ORAP-200.

In Appleton, the Chamber will take advantage of the week by conducting its annual membership campaign, starting with a kick-off breakfast Tuesday morning. A total of 50 team captains and workers will call on over 350 prospects to invite them to join the Chamber.

It goes without saying that the additional manpower and revenue would permit the Appleton Chamber to do an even more effective job.

Anguillans had also insisted they wanted good relations with Great Britain—it was only the prime minister on St. Kitts whom they abhorred.

But the Anguillan mistake seems to have been to send packing a British representative who came to confer. That led to an English announcement that the Anguillans were in effect captives of a bunch of thugs and they had to be liberated.

Queen Victoria and Rudyard Kipling probably would have approved of the invasion but it appears to be pretty much out of date

Prof. McHale's Evaluation of Cuba Contrasts With Castro's Words

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

It is strange, that on the same day that Professor McHale, Historian at UWGB, was speaking at the Great Decisions Luncheon at Lawrence University, as reported in The Post - Crescent on Friday, March 14, another, who most often tells the world of the glorious life in Communist Cuba, spoke in more somber tones.

Speaking to students at the University of Havana, Fidel Castro stated: "Society must face up to the problem of what to do with this class of incorrigible individuals and against that class of inveterate delinquents, and it even may require facing up to the necessity of eliminating them radically."

In his two hour speech, Castro, it is reported, left no doubt that he meant mass execution by firing squads which have already eliminated thousands of Cubans since he came into power.

To be included in his program of elimination are "the youngsters without any education, without knowledge, without culture, without conscience." Also, the common criminal is to be included in this program.

This statement by Castro leads me to believe that the situation in Cuba is not as glorious as Professor McHale would like to have us believe. Also, this statement by Castro makes me wonder as to where Professor McHale obtains his information on Cuba for the many reports that I have read and heard have left a much darker picture of Cuba in my mind. For instance, Professor McHale speaks of the redistribution of income. I have before me these figures: "The per capita income (Cuba) has declined from $422 a year in 1958 to $415 in 1968 (This is good?).

Professor McHale speaks of intellectual freedom — Czechoslovakian style. In a speech delivered last year on the eighth anniversary of the establishment of his Committee for the Defense of the Revolution Castro berated Cuban university students for their opposition to his policies, especially his backing of the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. (This is intellectual freedom?)

According to the article in The Post-Crescent, Professor McHale stated: "Taken altogether, what Fidel Castro has managed to do in Cuba is to really bring about the beginning of a radical social revolution that is presently solidly supported." If Castro's programs are so "solidly supported" by the people of Cuba, why is it that hundreds of thousands of Cubans have fled to the United States and other countries, and daily, many more are still trying to escape from Castro's Cuba? As for the majority of the people that remain in Cuba, what other choice do they have when they have a gun pointed at their heads?

It is generally conceded that illiteracy has been reduced in Cuba. This brought out the question, "What good will it do for one to learn how to read and then die of starvation or malnutrition?"

On a radio show in the Dominican Republic, "You Be The Jury," a Cuban exile when asked about life under Castro replied: "Under Fidel's regime, despite what he says about the peasants, it is not so. Things are not the same as he tells the peasants. There is no clothing, no shoes, no nutrition, no entertainment. Then what does it matter if the literacy rate is increased? There is no freedom, no money to spend and nothing to read but Communist propaganda."

In my opinion, Communist propaganda is just what Professor McHale's talk was. With all of the unrest and violence on our campuses today, Communist propaganda is one thing that must be eliminated. When our educators defy the leaders of governments who advocate and practice the suppression of the people's freedoms and rights, the killing of those who oppose them and oftentimes the mass murder of those who do not fit in their plans; what can we expect of the students who study under them?

As long as these people are allowed to spread their false and poisonous propaganda we will continue to have violence on our campuses and on the streets of our cities.

Tuition Grant Bill Should be Opposed

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

On Thursday, March 13, Senator Martin J. Schreiber, and numerous other legislators, introduced in our State Senate, the highly publicized "Citizens for Educational Freedom, or CEF tuition grant bill No. 346S. This bill would provide tuition grants to private and parochial school children, who attend these private and religious schools, from public funds.

I give the following reasons why this bill or any other bills, which have been or will be introduced into our State Legislature for parochial aid should be opposed.

The advocates for aid to parochial school students, claim that they are being double taxed. Taxes are paid only to the government and any amount that is paid to private and parochial schools in the form of tuition is not a tax. The parents of parochial school children pay this tuition because they want to have a religious education for their children.

Proponents of the tuition grant aid to parochial school pupils, from public funds, say this is aid to the child, not the church school, but in the same breath they say that without this tuition grant aid, their religious schools will be forced to close. This admission shows that the church schools will be aided.

Aid to religious societies or religious seminaries is forbidden under our Wisconsin Constitution, Article 1, section 18 and the First Amendment under our United States Constitution and Bill of Rights. "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or the free exercise thereof."

The ultimate aim of Citizens for Educational Freedom is to have the same amount paid to a parochial school pupil, from public funds, while attending a church school, as it costs to educate a public school pupil.

When and if this aid would be given them, there would be no taxes saved by any taxpayers. CEF are building their campaign on the slogan, "How much money this would save the taxpayers." by a tuition grant of $50 to parochial elementary pupils and $100 to high school students, per year. If in the long run the same amount is paid from public tax funds to a parochial school student as it costs to educate a public school pupil, which is now around $600 per year, the above slogan is a subterfuge. Its aim is to mislead the voters, taxpayers and legislators.

Now, I am not against anyone because of their religious belief, or non-belief. My only aim is to alert our American people to the loss of their freedoms, guaranteed in our United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights, which are freedom of religion, speech, of the press and the right of petition.

Aid to Private Students Would be Public Service

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Mr. Herman Weinberger and I have serious differences of opinion on the constitutionality of the Citizens for Educational Freedom sponsored tuition reimbursement bill currently before the state legislature. This bill, Senate Bill 346, would partially reimburse parents for the tuition they pay to send their children to private schools.

Ultimately only the Wisconsin Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court can resolve our difficulty. However, there seems to be enough precedent to indicate the bill is constitutional. But let us leave that to the courts.

The parents of private school students no longer think that they can subsidize the taxpayers of this state by operating their own schools. Yet they continue to believe in the principle of private education. They would like a portion of their own taxes to benefit their own children. In establishing their schools they are performing a public service. Our tax laws are full of exceptions for private groups receiving tax relief because they perform a public service. Should not private school parents be given the same consideration?

Wisconsin Report

Inventory of State's Tax Exempt Property Is Proposed in Bill

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The yardage of proposals in the form of bills and resolutions in the legislature in modern items is so great that hundreds of them get little or no mention in the public prints. No editor could print all of their contents, and no avaliable staff of reporters could read, digest and describe them adequately.

Wyngaard

Thus the chances are that few of the residents of Wisconsin have yet been informed of a proposal offered in the Assembly that would provide the machinery for a continuing and up-t-date inventory of the value of all of the tax exempt property in Wisconsin.

The authors are Assemblymen Edward Nager of Madison and Dennis Conta of Milwaukee, both Democrats.

SOME EXEMPTIONS QUESTIONABLE

Both are evidently responding to an awareness of the increasing anxiety among ordinary men and women of Wisconsin about the wieght of property tax burdens and the realization that they are heavier than they would otherwise be because of the numerous, often doubtful, and often quite indefinsible exemptions. Carelss legislators introduced such exemptions over a period of many years at the behest of influential or persuasive pressure groups that always belittle the fiscal consequences of their own pet exemption objectives.

The cumulative effect of page after page of exemptions in the bulky Wisconsin statues is obviously enormous. It is also discriminatory. In some smaller cities it may not be important. But in some of the larger communities of Wisconsin it would not be surprising to find, in a thorough and objective review, that the equivalent of a fourth to a third of the property value is immunized from the attentions of the tax assessor by law.

Obviously, the effect of such practices is to divert the tax-paying responsibility to those remaining property owners who were not influential enough or lucky enough or bold enough to get exemptions for themselves.

IMPOSES TAX BURDEN

The transference of the tax burden through such special privilege laws has been increasingly appreciated by municipal officials as their task of raising valuations and raising levies on the non-exempt properties within their jurisdictions has become more and more difficult and politically dangerous.

Thus the League of Wisconsin Municipalities a few years ago successfully sponsored a law to set up a joint legislative committee on tax exemptions. It has done good and objective work — in examining critically the flow of new proposals and often succeeding in killing them by writing factual and hard-hitting reports for the guidance of the liegislature as a whole.

But the committee has not attempted, and doubtless does not have the facilities, to make a retrospective examination of exemptions, with critical reports on the scores upon scores of examples of tax favoritism already written into the law over a period of many earlier years.

SOME ITEMS FAVORED

But the tax privilege issue is not confined to the property tax, although that is perhaps the most notorious and most offensive example for most persons.

Many taxpayers resent what they feel is the favored status of some items in the excise tax list, such as beer, which is scarcely touched and has borne only a nominal tax liability since the repeal of prohibition.

There are problems in the exemptions under the income tax law.

Some years ago a daring legislator thought a range for the legislature to get some notion of what it was giving away by exempting cooperative forms of economic organization and businesses from the income tax law. He asked only that such organizations file information returns with the State Tax Department. He did not propose that they be taxed, but that the legislature and the people be informed of the amount of the exemption.

But even that innocuous proposal was throttled to death in a hurry by the beneficiaries who obviously felt that such information given to the tax-liable public would be dangerous to their own interests.

Here's One Reason Why Students Protest

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

This letter is on the subject of student unrest in our universities and is written, at least in part, in reaction to letters like those from the "Father of a 10 Year Old" and others of a similar nature which assume a good deal more about the problem than the facts justify.

Unlike "Father," I already have a son in college, graduated with honors from one state university and now a straight "A" student in graduate school.

Without naming the particular branch of the University of Wisconsin involved, let me say that my son chose the school he is now attending because it had been given the authority to proceed in setting up a first rate graduate school for the subjects in which he is interested and, indeed, it had already accomplished the goals of procuring the necessary top-rate staff, facilities, grants for fellowships, etc. My son therefore had every reason to believe that he could obtain his doctorate, as well as his master's degree, from this school without the necessity of making additional costly relocations of his home and family.

He no sooner established himself near the university, however, when the CCHE, under the direction of Angus Rothwell, making a sudden move which it sought neither to explain nor justify, reversed the original decision and washed out a graduate school program at a point where practically all of the expenditures necessary to establish it had already been made.

My son is not the only student involved in the hardships that this wasteful action by a group of non-functional people has precipitated. There are probably hundreds. Do they have a right to be upset? What about the staff of experts recruited to set up a first rate graduate school and now left hanging a vacuum? Do they have a right to be upset? Do they have a right to protest?

Tell me, "Father," is a university a place where a student goes to become an "untouchable" at the bottom of a social pyramid with the CCHE and Angus Rothwell or his counterpart at the apex, handing down functionally irrelevant edicts, which the student must accept without a murmur? Or, is a university a place where students go as customers to purchase a product, education, and who, therefore, have a right to demand that they get a quality product with the attendant service in just the same way that you demand quality and service when you go the grocery store or any other retail outlet?

Let's stop injecting irrelevancies into the picture. If I wanted my son to learn discipline for —discipline's sake, I would hope that he would make a career in the armed forces where they have the best experts on the subject to teach it.

If you want to be comfortable in your self-assurance that everything is hunkey-dory in the administration of our educational institutions and that the unrest is inspired solely by a group of professional malcontents and is not a sign of a genuine failure on the part of these institutions to deliver an educational program which is functionally relevant to the age in which we live and the means whereby we live, go ahead and bury your head in the sand. And then, in an age in which the organization of these institutions in as anachronistic as a Sumerian chariot would be in outer space, go ahead with your resolve to send your son to the most anachronistic of them all.

Racism Is Evident in Laird Talk

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Mr James Laird pinpointed the assumptions and reactions of the racism of ten, fifteen, twenty years ago if his talk to the political science and economics classes at Kaukauna High School was accurately reported in last night's Post-Crescent. Unfortunately, he could be reflecting racial attitudes that may still be found in any residential area in Appleton

I had hoped that we had gone further than that up the road toward justice, social equilibrium and economic stability. We may have needed this sting to get us on our way again.

Youths Campaign for Decency

MIAMI (AP) —A teen-age "Crusade for Decency in Entertainment" which drew 30,000 hand-clapping supporters to the Orange Bowl Stadium Sunday may become a permanent organization

"We far surpassed our goal and we definitely plan to continue," said Kevin O'Conner, spokesman for the 10-member executive board which organized the rally "We hope it will grow into something permanent, and we believe it will

"This was not a protest rally at all. We're not against something; we're for decency. The response was just overwhelming We raised enough to meet expenses before the rally went on, and have $1,500 left over"

Teen-agers organized the rally after Jim Morrison, lead singer of The Doors, was charged with indecent exposure during a Miami concert March 1. Six warrants have been issued for his arrest.

"There is no question but that Morrison's actions promoted the rally," said the Rev James Briggs of Notre Dame Academy, a Roman Catholic school in Miami. "We hope it won't be just a flash in the pan. All of us would like to see it take some form of permanent organization, at least countrywide. And we hope it goes beyond that."

Idea Spreads

Father Briggs said two of the original four members of the organizing committee came from Notre Dame Academy, where a discussion was held two days after the controversial concert by The Doors.

The idea caught on and the committee grew to 10 members representing different faiths and schools in the Miami area

One singing group, The Lettermen, drove all night after a performance in Jacksonville to participate in Sunday's rally. One of the group, Ronnie Smith, said he and his associates thought the rally was needed to offset the image created by The Doors.

"We wanted to take part to bring back the good will that entertainment groups should have, and which was lost to some extent by what happened," Smith said.

At the rally, the shirt-sleeved crowd sat in warm sunshine while teen-age speakers gave three-minute talks on God, parents, patriotism, brotherhood and sex.

Professional entertainers—including Jackie Gleason, Anita Bryant, and the Rhodes Brothers—donated their services and provided inspirational talks, songs and music.

"I believe this kind of movement will snowball across the United States and perhaps around the world," Gleason said. "I have always liked Miami. Now I'm really proud of it"

The crowd included about 15,000 teen-agers and as many adults. Members of the American Legion passed out 20,000 small American Flags.

Executive committee members said they received telephone calls and letters from all over the country applauding their move and inquiries from other teen-age groups interested in it.

"We're going to try to come up with some kind of international youth organization," said Alan Rosenthal, a committee member. "It could really tie the world together."

Probe Urged Into Chemical Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., urged today an immediate investigation of the facts surrounding the Defense Department's activity in the field of chemical and biological warfare.

"Under the cloak of national security, there is reason to speculate that some of the most hideous and debasing forms of human warfare are being manufactured at the expense of the unsuspecting taxpayer," Nelson said in remarks prepared for a Senate speech.

He said a recent Defense Department briefing on chemical and biological warfare for members of Congress was really more lobbying for additional funds than it was an honest attempt to answer questions that were posed.

The Wisconsin senator said an estimated $300 million to $350 million is being spent annually on research and deployment of chemical and biological weapons.

"What is perhaps more significant than the dollar sign is the cloak of secrecy which has surrounded our activity in CBW research and development," Nelson said.

"The public has a legitimate right to know why the lid has been kept so tightly on the subject," Nelson added. "If our defense authorities believe that CBW is easily misunderstood and misinterpreted, then we in Congress, as well as the American public, deserve to know why this is so."

Nelson also asked what were the official policies for the use of such weapons' "in the event they are used first by a foreign aggressor against us.

"Who makes the decision to deploy anthrax, the plague, or a lethal nerve gas?" he asked. "What are the ground rules?"

Letters to Fillmore Found in Old House

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — The discovery of 10,000 to 12,000 letters to President Millard Fillmore, many of them from two women, has been disclosed by Prof. Charles M Snyder of Oswego State University

The women were Dorothea Dix, a crusader for reform of insane asylums and prisons, and Ann Ella Carroll, a ghost writer for Fillmore during his unsuccessful 1856 campaign to regain the presidency. He was president from 1850 to 1953

Snyder said he found the papers late in 1967 in New Haven, N.Y., in an unoccupied mansion which had been bequeathed to the university

Among the letters were more than 70 from Miss Dix expressing a "deep personal interest in Fillmore during his years as a widower," Snyder said.

Years of Poor Health

The first Mrs. Fillmore, Abigail Powers, died in 1853 after years of poor health. Their daughter died the next year. Five years later the little-remembered 13th president married Mrs. Caroline C McIntosh, widow of an Albany merchant.

Fillmore "made an attractive figure a real catch for anyone" the historian said, but calling the Dix correspondence love letters is "really jumping way ahead."

Snyder said the letters show here "deep personal interest and concern for his health. They were certainly very cordial, but beyond that the letters don't show an intimacy"

A second set of letters Snyder described as "intriguing" were from glamorous Miss Carroll, an editor and daughter of a Maryland governor

Personal Visits

She "was not a bit reluctant to try to influence Fillmore," Snyder said and she often arranged personal visits at campaign stops. But Fillmore avoided her and was discreet in answering her letters.

"She was very much annoyed at his failure to keep arrangements she was making to see him," Snyder said

"Miss Dix and Fillmore were of a comparaable age—both past 50," Snyder said But during the time the bulk of the letters was written he was in Europe and she "just paused to write" while crusading across the country.

The cache of letters was found in a 40-room mansion that was willed to the college by the heirs of Charles S. Shephard, a Buffalo businessman who died in 1934 The discovery was first revealed in a copyright story in the Syracuse Herald-American.

Fillmore's son, who first inherited the papers, died in 1889 leaving a will which ordered his executors to "destroy all correspondence or letters to or from my father, mother, sister or me"

Attic of Buffalo Home

Young Fillmore's executor, Charles Marshall—member of a prominent Buffalo family and related by marriage to the Shephards—ignored the will and had the papers transferred to the attic of his Buffalo home

Hazel Koerner, who Marshall had adopted in 1904, inherited the lawyer's estate when he was fatally stricken in 1908 without a will.

Shephard apparently discovered three pine chests containing the letters among the Marshall papers and had them shipped to the New Haven mansion. The boxes of Fillmore papers had lain unnoticed amidst boxes of Marshall papers, wired tight in 1909 by Shephard.

Girl Sniper 'Outstanding' Killer of GIs

TOKYO (AP) — She's shy and no taller than a rifle but after two days of sniping she has earned the title "outstanding destroyer of Yanks' for killing 18 U.S. soldiers with 21 bullets, Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency said today.

Her name is Tran Thi Buoi and she had only a few days training before she went out on her first mission, according to the broadcast from Hanoi

All seemed quiet after an American bombardment and U S soldiers were relaxing, the broadcast said. Tran Thi Buoi fixed her sights on two GIs sitting close together. Her bullet "went through both bodies and they instantly fell stone dead."

By nightfall she had killed seven other GIs and felt that time had flown away too fast, according to the broadcast

The next morning she shot an American gunner and "sent him to hell," the account said. Later in the day she picked off eight more soldiers without the survivors knowing where the bullets came from

$175,000 Is Offered For James Ray Story

NEW YORK (AP) — Percy Foreman, the lawyer who advised James Earl Ray to plead guilty to the Martin Luther King Jr., assassination, said today an offer of $175,000 has been made for the movie rights to the story.

Foreman said the offer was made by Carlo Ponti, film producer and husband of Italian actress Sophia Loren, to William Bradford Huie, Ray's official biographer.

"And I'll get 60 per cent of it," Foreman said in an interview in his New York hotel

Foreman said that in addition to the flat fee, Ponti would pay 13 per cent of the gross receipts of the movie

$85,000 Guarantee

Foreman, of Houston Tex., said Look magazine had guaranteed another $85,000 for Huie's series of articles on Ray's life, and that he was entitled to 60 per cent of that also.

The Houston lawyer, who successfully defended Candy Mossler and her nephew Melvin Powers in 1966 against a charge of murdering her husband, said Ray himself had fixed the attorney fee at $150,000.

Foreman said he understood that Arthur J. Hanes, a former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., who was Ray's original lawyer in the King case, had been paid $35,000.

"It all comes through Huie," Foreman said.

The attorney said that his 60 per cent share of the movie, book and magazine rights might total $400,000 or so, but that he would take only the $150,000 agreed upon with Ray

Trust for Family

Foreman said he would put anything above that figure into trust for Ray's family.

"I didn't fix the fee, he fixed it," Foreman said.

He said he advised Ray to plead guilty "because I believed he would be electrocuted if he didn't."

Ray was given a sentence of 99 years in the Tennessee state penitentiary. He has since signified his intention of asking a rehearing at which he could withdraw his guilty plea and elect to stand trial by jury

In Savannah, Ga., Ray's latest lawyer, J.B. Stoner, said his Ku Klux Klan connections would help Ray's case

"They show I'm a loyal white man and the white people of Shelby County are for white supremacy," Stoner said Memphis, where the murder occurred, is in Shelby County

Stoner asserted that King "brought about his own death with his activities across the country" and added:

"He was a troublemaker."

Commented Robert B. James, chairman of the Memphis City Council: "He's (Stoner) just making a lot of trouble that we don't need. He's certainly not welcome around here when he talks like that"

Antitrust Suit Due Against Huge Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department will file an antitrust suit against one of the nation's supergiant corporations in an effort to curb what an official terms the dangerous "merger-mania" of conglomerates.

The department Sunday announced court action will be sought to force Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., the nation's 14th largest corporation, to "divest itself of all of its interests in the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp."

The Justice Department suit will set the stage for a test of whether current federal antitrust legislation is effective in controlling acquisition-minded conglomerates—corporations which hold power over several usually unrelated businesses.

LTV responsded to the government announcement by saying it will vigorously defend its takeover of Jones & Laughlin, the sixth biggest steel producer in the country.

Urgent Situation

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren said the suit, under the Celler-Kefauver Amendment to the Clayton Antitrust Act, is being filed now because the situation is too urgent to wait for new legislation.

If unchecked, McLaren said, such mergers as between LTV and Jones & Laughlin will result in ever-growing concentrations of economic power by fewer and fewer persons relatively uncontrolled by government or competition.

LTV said it was confident the acquisition of J&L did not violate "existing antitrust legislation" and that "the courts will vindicate LTV's action."

Before initiating the takeover last year, the firm said, an opinion was obtained from "one of the nation's leading antitrust law firms" that the acquisition, if challenged, "could be successfully defended in court."

LTV's position is that its holdings are so diversified that they do not decrease competition in any field.

Moreover, it described the entry into the steel industry as "the most competitive development in that industry since the government itself supported the formation of Kaiser Steel and Lone Star Steel."

McLaren, to back up his warnings of dangerous economic concentrations, cites figures showing that the 200 largest corporations controlled 58.7 per cent of the nation's manufacturing assets in 1967, compared to 48 per cent held by the top 200 in 1948.

The merger pace continued to accelerate last year with 4,462 acquisitions, a record high that almost doubled the 2,975 of 1967.

McLaren denied this assumption, but said that even if it were so, he is willing to risk losing "a case or two" if it will help halt "merger-mania."

Basically a holding company, LTV has acquired 33 corporations since 1961 and has grown from 256th to 14th among the nation's corporate giants.

Defense Contractor

Among companies controlled by LTV, are Wilson & Co. Sporting Goods, largest in its field; Braniff International Airlines; Wilson & Co., America's third largest meat packing firm; National Car Rental System Inc.; and Greatamerica Corp., itself a holding company.

An LTV offer to buy the remainder—extended March 17—is to expire April 7.

J&L, based in Pittsburgh, Pa., accounts for production of between 5 and 10 per cent of most products in the country's steel output.

Its 1967 sales totaled more than $900 million, and it has assets of more than $1 billion.

The machine is so arranged that you can turn down only the proper number of voting pointers for each office; you cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates. Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above the name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. LEAVE VOTING POINTERS DOWN.
